MURDER STORY IS REITERATED BY KASCHOLK

Rudner Defense Attorneys Unable To Shake Story of Assassination Plot

OFFERED $200, HIS CLAIM

Man Who Roomed with McDermott Recalls Pat's "Big Job" Statement

Canton, Feb. 11—Steve Kascholk resumed the stand here today at the trial of Ben Rudner, charged with having headed the band of conspirators which caused the death of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, and was submitted to a withering fire of questions as defense attorneys sought to shake his story of the assassination plot.

Throughout his testimony yesterday afternoon and during a period of cross-examination just before adjournment, Kascholk adhered to the tale he unfolded at the trial of Pat McDermott, now serving a life sentence for participation in the conspiracy.

Although repeatedly asked to describe minutely various angles of the affair, the witness refused to budge from his version that he had been offered $200 to "slug an editor," by Rudner, McDermott and Louis Mazer, yet to be tried.

Reiterated Testimony

He reiterated his original testimony that he had withdrawn from the plot when he learned that Mellett was to be dealt with more severely.

Defense attorneys today again sought to weaken Steve's testimony by reintroducing his alleged illicit love affairs with Mary Cherinskey. Kascholk had admitted yesterday that he wrote the woman he was seeking part of the $27,000 reward offered for the capture of Mellett's murderers, in order to support their children.

The defense counsel gave up its efforts to twist Kascholk on cross examination and he was excused from the stand at 11 o'clock.

The next witness, William Betzler, testified that he occupied a room in a boarding house with Pat McDermott several days prior to the Mellett murder.

Recalls "Big Job"

"The night of the murder I asked Pat to drink some wine with me," Betzler testified.

"He refused saying; 'No,' I have a big job on tonight.'

"I then said, 'Well, I'll see you in the morning.'

"Pat replied: 'No. I am leaving town after this job tonight; and a friend of mine in Massillon who has plenty of money is going to see that I am well taken care of.'"

Rudner was engaged in the hardware business at Massillon when the murder was committed.

GERMAN METAL MAGNATE PLACED ON TRIAL STAND

Dinner Figuring in Daugherty, Miller Case Described by Merton

New York, Feb. 11—Richard Merton, German metal magnate, was placed on the stand again today at the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, charged with conspiracy, and described a champagne dinner which preceded his payment of $391,000, the alleged bribe on which the prosecution is based.

Merton stated that the dinner occurred at a New York hotel Sept. 30, 1921, and that on the next day he gave the $391,000 to the late John T. King, Connecticut politician. The money was paid in return for the approval of a $7,000,000 German claim for war-seized property, and was alleged by the government to have been split between Daugherty, Miller, King, and Jess Smith, a friend of Daugherty's.

Several employes of the hotel where the champagne dinner was held than testified to records of the affair.

CLAIMS DISCOVERY OF ALCOHOL DENATURANT

Carnegie Institute Professor Says Liquid Is Distasteful, Non-Poisonous

Pittsburgh, Feb. 11—Prof. Joseph H. James, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, today announced the discovery of a new denaturant of alcohol that is non-poisonous, yet so distasteful as to make the alcohol in which it is contained undrinkable. The denaturant is known as "Aldehol." It has a violently repulsive odor.

"Aledhol" has been adopted by the government and beginning April 1, it will be used to denature industrial alcohol, he said.

NICARAGUAN VILLAGERS REPORTED SUFFERING

Washington, Feb. 11—Secretary of Navy Wilbur today instructed Rear Admiral Latimerhlfa, Commander of American occupational forces, to send all available supplies of canned milk to the suffering women and children in Chinandega, scene of a fierce battle between Nicaraguan government and revolutionary forces. There was said to be much privation in the town.

The battle lasted 60 hours. It resulted in 300 deaths and 500 injuries. Government forces won.

Edison is 80 Today

Born in Cottage at Milan, Ohio, Inventor Has Climbed to Highest Pinnacle of Fame; Has More Than 1,000 Patents to Credit

Eighty years ago today, Thomas A. Edison, inventor and "electrical wizard," was born in a cottage at Milan, O. The photo shows a view of his boyhood home there, and to the left is the great inventor himself who maintains his laboratories and home at East Orange, N. J. Edison, who has patents for more than 1,000 inventions to his credit, still is active at his advanced age.

DEATH PENALTY MAY BE DEMANDED FOR LEOPOLD

Search Being Made for Corroboration of Evidence He Was Brains of Plot

Chicago, Feb. 11—Search for corroboration of evidence that Nathan Leopold, "thrill slayer" of Bobby Franks, was the brains and instigator of the jail breaking plot resulting in the murder of Deputy Warden Peter N. Klein at the penitentiary at Joliet a year ago and for which six convicts are under death sentence, was taken up today by State's Attorney Helmar Rehn of Will County.

"All we need is a little corroboration," he said. "These convicts have told plainly that Leopold was their leader but it is doubtful if we could convict Leopold on their testimony alone.

"If anything to sustain their story can be found I shall ask the death penalty for Leopold."

Prison officials declare none of the convicts is of sufficient mentality to have devised the plot which enabled them to leave the penitentiary but that Leopold furnished the brains and framed up the whole affair. According to their theory, the murder of Klein was not a part of the plot but was found necessary by the convicts in their efforts to release Leopold, who was in solitary confinement. They killed Klein to get the key to his cell but were unable to find it. It is now believed Leopold cleared the way at the gate by bribing guards.

INJUNCTIONS PERMIT PLAYHOUSES TO PROCEED

Intermission Curtain Rings Down on Broadway's Latest Sensation

Efforts of the municipal authorities to outlaw allegedly objectionable productions, have reached a temporary impasse. The quick retaliation of theater owners and managers in obtaining injunctions prohibiting the police from interfering with performances, has brought the anti-vice movement for the present to a standstill.

"The Captive," "Sex" and "The Virgin Man," the three shows which have suffered the brunt of the cleansing movement, gave their performances last night as usual, despite strenuous action of the authorities to enforce threats to padlock the box offices. While arrangements were being made to place members of the casts of the productions under arrest if last night's performances were given, Justice Aaron Levy granted a temporary injunction in favor of "The Captive," restraining the police from interfering with performances of that play.

FIREMAN AT ZANESVILLE MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING

Zanesville, Feb. 11—City police here today were conducting a search for Carl Ansell, 32, a city fireman, who has been mysteriously missing for a week.

Police have learned that he drew all his savings, about $2,000, from a local bank shortly before he disappeared.

PHONOGRAPH HIS GREATEST EFFORT

West Orange, N. J., Feb. 11—Thomas Alva Edison, electrical wizard and the world's foremost inventor, regards the phonograph as his greatest achievement. He said so himself today in his annual symposium of views given on his eightieth birthday. Edison said his views on the subject of immortality had not changed. That still is as much of a secret as the spark of life.

GIRL, 14, IS MILLIONAIRE THROUGH COURT ACTION

Daughter of Late Tobacco Magnate Given House Valued at $1,000,000

New York, Feb. 11—By virtue of a friendly court action necessitated by a peculiar provision in her father's will, Doris Duke, 14-year-old daughter of the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, is a millionaire today.

She has been awarded the Duke town house here, valued at $1,000,000, and its contents, which include art objects and tapestries valued at $800,000. To her also now belong four automobiles and a private railroad car bearing her name.

The girl is the principal heir to the Duke estate, estimated at $80,000,000. The provision in the will that the court was asked to act upon was that all the property be sold at public auction, but that his daughter was to have the right to bid it all in if she desired; and was to be given enough money from the estate to do it.

In her supreme court action, the girl contended this would be a useless and costly proceeding and would result in great damage to the property. Justice Glennon declared her owner of the property, subject to mortgage and other conditions, without the formality of a sale.

A portion of the Duke estate was bequeathed as an endowment to Duke University, Durham, N. C.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY

Operation Believed Motive for Murder; Torso in Indiana River

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 11—An illegal operation had been performed on the woman whose torso, head, arms and shoulders cut away, was found in the St. Joseph River, it was announced today after Coroner Carl C. Reifein and Dr. E. H. Meyers performed an autopsy.

This discovery provided a definite motive in the opinion of officials, for what is regarded as one of the most atrocious murders in recent years, rivaling the slaying by William N. Coffey of Mrs. Hattie Sherman Hales near Platteville, Wis.

FIFTY GALLONS FOUND ON MEN, OFFICIALS DECLARE

Cincinnati, Feb. 11—Federal officers here today were of the opinion that further details of the Dayton liquor ring might be exposed through the arrest of two men of that city on charges of violating the prohibition law.

The two men who gave their names as John Mauber, 28, and Carl Krueger, 29, both of Dayton, were arrested in the business district here today by federal operatives.

The agents declared they found 50 gallons of alleged whisky in the possession of the two men.

$3,000 WORTH OF RUM FOUND IN ERIE YARDS

Discovery Is Made When Box Labeled "Automobile Parts" Springs Leak

WHISKY AND CHAMPAGNE

More Than 500 Bottles in Four Cases Confiscated from Local Freight House

A shipment of high-grade liquor, estimated to be worth $3,000, will never reach its destination as the result of one of the cases, supposed to contain automobile parts and accessories, having "sprung a leak" at the local Erie freight transfer house.

The liquor, about three-fourths bonded whisky and the remainder champagne, bearing the label of a French distiller, is now stored at the county jail while Sheriff Deal awaits developments before deciding what disposition to make of the beverage.

Withhold Details

Although the liquor consignment was discovered Wednesday afternoon at the Erie transfer, details were not made public until today, due to the fact that officials of the railroad and county feared that premature publicity might interfere with efforts to ascertain the identity of persons responsible for the shipment.

The investigation still is in progress and for that reason officials for the time being are withholding information regarding the place from where the shipment was made and to whom it was addressed.

The bottled beverage is in four large cases, each about four feet long and two feet high. Although no actual count of the contents has been made, it is estimated that there are more than 500 bottles in the four cases.

"Auto Parts"

The boxes, labeled "auto parts", arrived at the Erie freight transfer about noon Wednesday. The shipment bore all indications of containing legitimate merchandise and truckmen at the transfer started to move the cases to a freight car booked to leave Wednesday night for the city to which the boxes were addressed.

Then one of the truckmen, happily provided with a well-trained sense of smell, detected an odor which he felt sure could not possibly emanate from automobile parts or accessories.

The air became redolent with an aroma which brought back memories of pre-Volstead days. The atmosphere about the Erie freight transfer is not ordinarily tinged with this sort of perfumery and consequently an investigation followed.

Captain Called

When a liquid that was unmistakably alcoholic was discovered trickling from the "auto parts" case, Capt. F. E. Tabler of the Erie police was summoned. Tabler identified the fluid as being entirely foreign to anything that should be coursing from a box filled with auto parts and decided that higher Erie officials should be notified.

Before doing this, however, the four boxes were partly opened and all were

ARREST OF YOUTH HERE INCREASES LIST TO 16

James Smith Taken into Custody on Charge of Participating in Burglaries

The list of Marion youths accused of having been implicated in robberies committed here during the last six months was increased to 16 yesterday when James Smith, 755 Bellefontaine-av, was taken into custody.

Young Smith has confessed, according to Chief of Police James W. Thompson, to having taken part in two burglaries at the Miller grocery on Cheney-av, last fall. This grocery, police say, was entered three times by youths arrested in the recent round-up which followed first disclosures of the local juvenile crime wave.

Smith's arrest resulted, Chief Thompson says, from confessions obtained from other boys previously taken into custody. In listing the Miller grocery robberies among their alleged lawless operations, they are said to have implicated the Smith boy.

Forest Roush, 16, Charles Redman, 16, and Carrol J. Copeland, 17, are other boys named by police in connection with the Miller robberies.

Young Smith was taken to the Juvenile Detention Home on Wallace-st, where he is held awaiting disposition of his case. Although he is 18 years old, which is above the Juvenile Court age limit, Chief Thompson believes that the case should be heard in this court and he plans to make a recommendation to that effect to Juvenile Judge McNeal.

OHIO SENATE PASSES THREE NEW MEASURES

Columbus, Feb. 11—House members, upon their return here Monday night from their week-end recess, will be asked to approve the action of the senate which passed the following measures:

By Sen. L. T. Marshall, Greene County, granting a subsidy of $112,000 to Wilmington College for a teachers' training school; by Sen. L. L. Marshall, Cuyahoga, defining the duties of metropolitan park boards and giving police powers to certain employes of such boards; by Sen. M. S. Kuhns, Dayton, reducing the distance that a cemetery must be from a dwelling from 200 yards to 100 yards.

Marion Couple Married 50 Years Planning Observance at Their Daughter's Home

Mr. Concklin Son of W. W. Concklin, Who Settled Here in 1822; Early Incidents in History of City Recalled; Came to Marion on Freight Train

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Concklin, 114 N. State-st, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, Feb. 15, by receiving their friends in the afternoon and evening at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. James W. McMurray, 637 Windsor-st. No formal invitations have been issued for the celebration and friends are invited between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon and 7:30 and 10 at night.

Mr. and Mrs. Concklin are members of the First Presbyterian Church and Mrs. Concklin is an active member of the Woman's Club, the oldest organized federated club in the city. Mr. Concklin is a retired farmer, and his only lodge affiliations are with the Elks. Mr. Concklin celebrated his eighty-third birthday anniversary Dec. 8, last year, and his wife her seventy-fourth anniversary May 25 last year.

Wed in Columbus

Mr. and Mrs. Concklin were married at the home of Mrs. Concklin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Phelps, in Columbus, and following a week's honeymoon in Chicago, came to Marion where they have since resided. Mr. Concklin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Concklin, pioneer residents of the city, his father coming here in 1822. Mrs. Concklin came to Marion first in 1871 and for several years was employed as a teacher in the public schools. At that time she made the trip from Columbus here by way of Galion over the Big Four, riding from Galion here on a freight train, which in those days accommodated passengers. They resided for a number of years in the old Concklin home, W. Center-st, where the Letonia Building now stands.

Mr. and Mrs. Concklin are parents of three daughters, all of whom are planning to be with them on the anniversary. They are Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. F. J. Crafts, of Hiram, and Miss Mary Lee Concklin, of this city.

TWO OF FOUR YOUTHS ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEAS

Erwin Brothers Deny Charges; Albert Simpkins, George Kesselring Admit Guilt

Pleas of not guilty to the charges in the indictments returned by the grand jury this week were entered by John and Arthur Erwin when they were arraigned before Judge George B. Scofield in Common Pleas Court this morning.

Pleas of guilty were entered by Albert Simpkins and George R. Kesselring.

The four youths were indicted following their arrests recently for alleged participation in a series of crimes within the county in the last year. The four indictments were returned by the grand jury Tuesday, after a two-day investigation of the crime wave in Marion.

Bond fixed at the time of the arrest of the Erwin youths was renewed and they are at liberty, the date of their trials to be fixed later.

Date for sentencing of Albert Simpkins and George R. Kesselring has not been fixed.

DR. DANA O. WEEKS IS ACQUITTED OF CHARGES

Given Directed Verdict in Suit Brought by Cora E. Richardson, Maine

Dr. Dana O. Weeks, Marion physician was found not guilty by a jury in Common Pleas Court this morning, of a statutory charge filed against him by Cora E. Richardson, Blue Hill, Me., last July.

The verdict was directed by the court. Neither the state nor the defense presented any evidence, and the jury retired shortly after being sworn and receiving the directed verdict of not guilty.

The acquittal of Weeks marks the end of the case which began with the filing of charges against him by Miss Richardson last July. Weeks denied the charges when arraigned in justice court, and was bound over to common pleas court, where the case was called as the first one this morning and disposed of.

GREAT BRITAIN, GERMANY BACK COOLIDGE PLAN

French Press Generally Condemns Disarmament Proposal of U. S. Executive

VERDICTS ARE AWAITED

Nation's Leaders Believe Acid Test Applied to Europe's Sincerity

London, Feb. 11—Great Britain welcomes President Coolidge's disarmament proposals because it is the fixed policy of the British government to support any movement to aid disarmament, said an official statement issued today. This indorsement has some qualifications, however.

The proposal comes at a most propitious time, it was stated by the official spokesman for the government.

Great Britain's policy remains the same as at the Washington conference, as regards the 5-5-3 ratio.

Indicate Reservation

There was an indication of reservation in the British attitude, however, when the official spokesman said that as regarded vessels outside the 5-5-3 ratio the government could not commit itself until the question had been considered by experts.

The admiralty generally welcomes the proposals on grounds of enabling financial economies, but it is not disposed to accept any reduction in the British cruiser strength. It maintains that present cruiser strength of Great Britain is low, pointing out that at present there are but three British cruisers in the Mediterranean whereas there are usually 17 there. The other cruisers have been sent into the far east.

The text of the American invitation to a new arms conference was made available in London too late last night to receive extensive newspaper comment this morning. Only three morning papers, The Westminster Gazette, The Daily Chronicle and The Daily Express, carried editorial comment. The first two indorsed President Coolidge's stand, and The Daily Express, while approving the principles enunciated in the invitation, felt they were not practical.

• • •

FRENCH PRESS CONDEMN PLAN

Paris, Feb. 11—The French government today declined to make any comment on President Coolidge's disarmament proposals until it has consulted Great Britain and Italy and the cabinet has given consideration to the matter.

The foreign office admitted that the proposals came as "a great surprise."

There seemed but little doubt but the French government would make a polite effort to sidetrack the proposals.

A widespread impression prevails here that President Coolidge intends to exercise pressure through the debts owed the United States to force France to accept the proposals. How far such a measure would succeed is problematical.

Naval Circles Aroused

French naval circles are aroused over the proposals, since they still are smarting under the decision of the Washington conference placing France on a naval equality with Italy.

President Coolidge's project received general condemnation from the French press.

In newspaper circles there are many suggestions that President Coolidge is aiming a torpedo at both the League of Nations and the league's disarmament conference.

COOLIDGE PLAN SEEN AS ANGLO-AMERICAN IDEA

Geneva, Feb. 11—President Coolidge's new disarmament proposals are regarded here as a pre-arranged Anglo-American plan, although there is some surprise over the possibility of Great Britain having entered into such a proposal.

It is generally believed here France and Italy will reject the proposition

SANTA FE MAIL HEAD LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Edward Chambers Believed To Have Become Suddenly Insane in Hospital

San Francisco, Feb. 11—After breaking a screen and barricading the door, Edward Chambers, 60, vice president of the Santa Fe Railroad, leaped to his death today from his fourth floor room in St. Luke's Hospital here.

Surgeons at the hospital expressed the belief that the Chicago railroad executive had experienced a sudden attack of insanity. He was recovering from a minor operation performed two days ago.

One of the last known railroad men in the West, Chambers had worked at various times in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago.

He had worked for the Santa Fe for 36 years, starting as a laborer.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventures

BY JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

Today was Friday. Nothing happened. I and Jubilee was asleep when Whitey came to bed last night, and he looked under his pillow for his carmels, and then he looked under my pillow for them, but he did not find them because I had put them down in the bed on the far side of me so Jubilee could not get them if I went to sleep, and then he gave me a poke in the ribs to tell me to wake up, but I only rolled over and did not wake up, and then my ant hollered upstairs to us to get up, so he was in a strange bed, and didn't dast to talk back.

I kind of laid on the carmels quite a while and melted them, and then me or Whitey was not used to sleeping with Jubilee and he was not used to sleeping with me, and the fleas must of got in his underclothes, so we twisted and turned all night, and I woke up early and made a light, and he thought he ought to get up when I did, and he stood there in his underclothes looking at me, and I looked at him, and he looked like the leppard-boy that was in the sideshow, and then I let Jubilee down and we looked at the bed, and we couldn't of done better if we had used a paint brush.

There wasn't much of the carmels we could eat, and what there was had to be scraped off. We turned our pillows over, and then we made the bed so my mother wouldn't notice anything, and then we went down and washed our faces and hands and made the fire and milked the cows and the bunch waited for us, and then we went to school, and I had so much carmel on me my clothes stuck in places, mostly where I had to set on them a long time in school, and just when we were getting our jogafy there was a knock on our room door, and the teacher answered it, and then she called Whitey and me to go out in the hall, and my mother and ant and our doctor was there. And my mother looked at me anxious and asted me if I was feeling well, and I said I was, and Whitey said he was too, and then the doctor felt of our wrists and looked at our tongues and said we looked all right to him, and then my mother asted us if we was sick in the night, and we said we wasn't. Then I remembered the carmels, and me and Whitey told her about them, and the doctor threw back his head and hollered, and even my ant kinda grinned, and they went, but the teacher called me and Whitey "Sweetie" whenever she spoke to us the rest of the day.

Whitey went home to his folks from school, and when I got home I had to wash all over. I am glad I have not got a brother. I have troubles enough by myself.

My mother is glad I'm not twins. She said so.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Oh, dear!" sighed Jingle, one of Uncle Wiggily's little girl rabbits in the hollow stump bungalow. "Oh, dear!"

"Two dear!" came from Jangle, her sister.

"And I say three dear!" exclaimed Tooter, who was sitting beside his brother Scooter, leafing over the pages of a book.

"My goodness! Whatever is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily who had just come in from a visit to Uncle Butter, the goat, with whom he plays Scotch checkers. "Is this some sort of a game, that you are saying such sad words?"

"We've all got to learn pieces to speak in school tomorrow!" said Jingle. "And, I just hate it!"

"So do I!" sighed her sister Jangle.

"You don't hate it half as much as I do," grumbled Scooter.

"And if the Lady Mouse Teacher thinks I'm going to learn a long piece to speak she's mistaken!" declared Tooter. "I'm going to learn the shortest one there is in the book." Rapidly he leafed over the pages until he found a verse which read:

"You'd scarce expect one of my age
To speak in public on the stage!"

"Well, what's the rest of it?" asked Scooter.

"Thats all there is to it," answered Tooter. "That's all there is to it! The shortest piece in the book! I'm going to learn that," and he began saying it over and over to himself to remember it.

"Aw, I wish I'd taken that!" said Scooter. "Is there another one as short as that, Tooter?"

"You can look. I've got mine learned," Tooter answered.

He handed his brother the book, meanwhile screwing up his eyes and mumbling over and over the short piece he had learned. Scooter leafed the pages and gave a shout of delight, saying:

"Here's one almost as short as yours, Tooter! Listen!

"The thunder roars and the lightnings flash. It broke Grandmother's teapot all to smash!"

"I'm going to learn that one."

"You boys have it easy," said Jingle. "We've learned our pieces already, Jangle and I, and they're longer than that. Oh dear! I hate speaking pieces in school Friday afternoon!"

"So do I!" said Jangle.

"It will do you good," declared Uncle Wiggily. "When I was a young rabbit the best thing I liked to do was to speak a piece in school on Friday afternoon."

"Could you speak long pieces?" asked Tooter with a wink at his brother.

"Oh, very long," Uncle Wiggily answered. "I know one piece that takes nearly an hour to recite. I was the only rabbit in our school who could memeorize it."

"You were very clever," said Jingle, as Tooter and Scooter went out of the room, whispering to each other. "I wish somebody would speak a long piece for the Lady Mouse tomorrow afternoon and take up all the time so she wouldn't call on me."

"I wish the same," said Jangle.

Friday afternoon came. All the boy and girl animals were in their seats ready for the speaking of pieces. Jingle and Jangle were worrying about when their turns would come. But, all of a sudden, there was a knock at the door, and in came Uncle Wiggily. Some of the pupils were surprised, but the Lady Mouse seemed to expect the rabbit, for she said:

"Boys and girls, some of you I know, do not like to learn pieces for Friday afternoon. Some of you hunt for the very shortest verses you can find. Now I heard, this morning, that in his younger days Uncle Wiggily was a great speaker of pieces. So I invited him here this afternoon to show you how easy it is to speak pieces. We shall hear from Mr. Longears first."

"Thank goodness" sighed Jingle, and Tooter and Scooter tried not to laugh. Then Uncle Wiggily went to the platform and began speaking. He was a good one at it, but my such a long piece as he had! Ten minutes passed, and he was still declaiming. Fifteen minutes—half an hour—an hour—an hour and a half and still the rabbit was reciting about Hiawatha and the Charge of the Light Brigade and the Wreck of the Hesperus all made into one. And at last the Lady Mouse held up her paw.

"That is a very wonderful piece, Uncle Wiggily," she said with a smile, "but we shall have to listen to the rest of it next week. School is out now"

And, maybe those boys and girls weren't happy! Oh, yes indeed! And Scooter and Tooter, who had asked the Lady Mouse to invite Uncle Wiggily to speak, they were happy also.

Don't Let a Cough or Cold 'Go Down'

If you let a cough get down into your bronchial tubes or lungs, it stays being merely a nuisance and becomes a real danger.

A "head cold" is only a bother while it stays in your head. But once it gets down into the danger area, serious trouble threatens.

Act promptly to check the cough: to keep the head cold from "going down." Here and instantly relief is as near as the nearest drug store.

Quickly and unfailingly Ayer's Cherry Pectoral goes straight to the seat of danger. Real medicine, healing deep with its soothing, healing power, penetrating through and through the irritated membranes of your throat and bronchial tubes.

If you are subduing cold: if your have a "head cold": if your chest is tight: if you have a cough—even if bronchitis has developed—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at once! Keep your cold from going down into the danger zone.

Cherry Pectoral is pleasant, safe and dependable—for children and grown people. At all druggists—50c; value as much, $1.00. 1906

DETROIT READY TO BUILD NEW RAPID TRANSIT

Report of Commission Does Not Approve of Downtown Subway at Present

Detroit, Feb. 11—Detroit needs and is able to finance a complete rapid transit system, according to a report of the Rapid Transit commission's report.

The report was submitted to Mayor John W. Smith and the city council.

In its report the commission members announce their opposition to downtown subway dips, declaring that such a plan might hamper the construction and financing of the remainder of the system.

"If, however, on account of political, psychological or other reasons it is better to make a beginning on a small scale than the full project recommended, then one of the eight alternatives should be considered," the report reads.

Mayor Favors Subway

Mayor Smith believes that downtown subways will solve Detroit's immediate traffic problems and that the tubes could be extended into the outlying districts as needed. That plan is listed fifth on the commission's recommendations.

The commission points out that in fairness to all sections of the city, the four main arteries should be constructed at once. Enhanced property values and accommodations would accrue wherever a subway was constructed, the commissioners say. They point to the population figures in New York where great majorities of the residents live within comparatively small areas that are furnished rapid transit. The four line plan is the commission's first recommendation and would cost $187,708,000, the city's share to be $172,000,000. Cost of equipment for this system is estimated at $91,600,000. This plan would be financed by Equipment Trust notes and mortgage bonds backed by the revenues and equipment of the system.

May Hold Election

"These questions should be submitted immediately to the voters," the report concludes. "Shall the first step be the complete system of four lines? If not what portion of the complete system shall be undertaken first?"

The report is signed by Sidney D. Waldon, president, and Willard Pope, H. W. Alden, C. W. Hubbell and A. H. Green, Jr.

In the report Mayor Smith, Acting Mayor John C. Lodge and Senator James Couzens are praised for their forward looking spirit in creating a rapid transit commission and permitting it to operate through more than four years of deliberation and study.

In making its studies, the commission based their estimates on a city of 8,000,000 in 50 years and 5,000,000 in 20 years.

MARRIAGE UNITES TWO PROMINENT SOUTHERN FAMILIES

Central Press

The marriage in Naples, Italy, of Miss Elizabeth Davis Stevenson of Bloomington, Ill., and Ernest Linwood Ives of Norfolk, Va., unites two of the most prominent families in the two states. The bride is the great granddaughter of Lewis Green, who was president of Centre College, Kentucky, whose two daughters, Mrs. Letitia Green Stevenson and Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, both became presidents general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mr. Ives is first secretary to the American embassy at Constantinople, Turkey.

KEEP YOUR STOMACH RIGHT!

Gas, Heartburn, Discomfort ARE Serious!
Here's an Old-fashioned Treatment that Keeps You Fit

THAT "full" feeling after meals—gas, heartburn, discomfort, an occasional pain just over your stomach—these are Nature's way of telling you there's something wrong.

Dillingham's Plant Juice will help your liver and encourage your stomach—for that's what's wrong! Your stomach's not working right.

Mrs. Lillian Bitting of 419 Max St., Allentown, Pa., says:

"Since I began on Plant Juice it has rid me of all my ailments. Three years ago my appetite was so poor I did not care whether I ate or not. Gas caused severe pains, my nerves were upset and robbed me of many a night's sleep. During the day I felt dull, listless and weak. Now those pains and distress are things of the past. My nerves are calm and steady, my sleep is sound and unbroken, and I go about my housework singing."

Plant Juice is compounded from herbs and plants. This pleasant tasting remedy works naturally, easily, without any discomfort. It cleanses your whole system, purifies your blood and tones up your body.

The first few doses will give you a chance to see how much better you feel. But don't stop, just because of that—give this fine old remedy a chance to do you some real good. Ask your druggist for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice.

We Are After The Man

Who has a bureau drawer full of trusses and has steadily grown more miserable.

We are after the man who has tried all kinds of trusses and is steadily growing into a more and more desperate plight. We want to try our system of fitting a truss to him and if we fail to make him happy he will get his money back.

Remember—One Truss is enough if it's the right one and holds the rupture. That's the one we guarantee to deliver.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 11—Even in the good old days when chorus girls were not compelled to bathe in champagne, careful fathers and mothers would not allow their pure young daughters to tread the sinful boards of the stage. Boys were different. They had enough strength to combat temptation. Some of them had the very qualities that gave them the chance to fill the gaps supplied by the lack of suitable female talent.

In just such a way did a tall, dark, handsome boy, 45 years ago, get his start in a prima donna role, bringing down the house with his graceful gestures and his pleasing soprano voice. Now, he has celebrated his sixty-second birthday simultaneously with the production of the seventy-fifth play from his pen on the Yiddish stage.

Boris Thomashefsky of Philadelphia is the author-actor who, in company with his manager-brother Max, has lived the legend of the wandering Jew, bringing his Yiddish theater to every key city in the states, touring the cosmopolitan centers of Europe dozens of times, recognizing and introducing to the American public such full-blown stars as Maurice Schwartz, Rudolph Schildkraut, Ludwig Satz, Ben Ami, Bertha Kalich and a host of others.

Where He Started

"Yes, it was 45 years ago," Max reminisces, "that we started the first Jewish Theater in Turn Hall on Fourth Street in New York. We were chased out by a cruel management and made our next home on East Broadway at the American Star Hall. From there we went to Bowery Garden. Soon we tried Philadelphia, establishing ourselves at Fourth and Crown Streets and then at Ludner's Music Hall.

"We played in every big city here and then we went to Europe where Boris was constantly discovering new talent and bringing them over. You know he thinks Jews are second only to Italians in their share of genuine artistic temperament."

Boris Thomashefsky is as proud of his seventy-fifth opus as he is of all his other works. They all deal with Jewish life and they have every one been a success. He is today writing a seventy-sixth because he finds that the dramatic material in Jewish life provides him with inexhaustible supply.

Asked the number of roles he has played during his career, he looks puzzled. "I have the largest repertoire of any living actor," he answers. "I have acted hundreds and hundreds of roles; Shakespeare, Hauptmann, Tolstoi, Tchekov. Yes, I tried acting on the English stage in the vaudeville sketch, 'The Green Millionaire,' but your two-a-day tired me out. I have come back to the stage of my people of which I was the pioneer in America, at my own repertory theater in Philadelphia."

NEW BRITISH LAW WILL AID ENGLISH FILM MEN

Seeks To Force Renters To Book Fixed Number of Home-Made Pictures

that a Bill to give assistance to the British film industry will form part of the Parliamentary legislative program in February.

Its precise form will not be of the original suggestion—of putting a heavy duty on imported films with a Preference for those from the Dominions. It is more likely, on the other hand, to make it compulsory for every film renter

London, Feb. 11—It is now certain to book a certain fixed percentage of British-made films.

It is believed that this quota would increase the competition among the makers for the best and most marketable British films, thus encouraging good British production.

One clause in the Bill will make it illegal to "book" a film before it has been shown at a trade exhibition in the country. The object of this is to check the method whereby British exhibitors are compelled to contract for foreign films which they have not seen.

Entitled to Good Pay.

All those who believe that labor should receive fair return for its efforts will naturally approve the announced increase in pay, effective February 1, to be received by the 31,000 firemen and enginemen on twenty-seven eastern roads and thirty-two subsidiary lines. As the New York Central system, the Erie and the Pennsylvania system are among those affected by the increase, the result of the conference between representatives of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen and G. Wallace Hanger, of the United States board of mediation, means much to Marion, for the pay of hundreds of railroaders who are residents of this city or turn at this place is increased by seven and a half per cent, thereby.

Good pay means—at least it should mean—better living conditions, better health, and thus happier homes and more contented families than can be anticipated when the wage return of labor is indifferent. This newspaper has long believed and preached that labor in any field should be paid all the business in which it is engaged will stand and yet give fair return on the capital invested. We have heard and seen a lot in type about "a living wage," but we never took much stock in it. We have long felt, and had no hesitation in saying, that labor should have more than a living wage; that it should have a saving wage, for it is intolerable to think that an honest, faithful, efficient worker should go through life on a living wage and have nothing in store when his physical activities are on the ebb. If he receives a saving wage during the height of his physical powers, he can have provision for his declining years. If he doesn't make such provision—and this applies to labor in any form—it is his own fault and not that of the system.

It is said to be the belief of those who should know that the present increase is the first one of such magnitude—magnitude in the sense of number affected—reached as a result of mediation. It is fitting, such being the case, that it should apply to railroad men, the men to whom we entrust our lives when traveling and to whom we entrust the handling of our goods about the country. The very nature of their work is such that they are entitled to adequate reward for the services they render.

Just Where We Were Before.

Undoubtedly there are those who will regret that the option on the Marion Steam Shovel plant was not closed, those who feel that the planned change of ownership would have worked for the expansion of the city's industrial field by reason of the volume of money it would have brought here for new interests, but it is safe to say that by far the greater element of our citizenship is delighted that a change of ownership is not to be effected—the element made up of those who ever regret that industries which have been fostered and developed here at home should ever pass from home control and home management, those who feel that the return from home industries should be held here and not pass to outside hands; those who feel that the home method of management which has been so markedly in evidence throughout the entire existence of the Marion Steam Shovel company, while not so spectacular, is infinitely to be preferred to that which ordinarily obtains in the industrial field the country over; that the home plan of keeping a force of reasonable size employed the year around is better for the force and better for the city than the general industrial plan of running a capacity force during the busy season and running but a skeleton force or shutting down entirely when business is dull.

No matter which element may be right or which element wrong, the fact remains that industrial Marion today is just as it was before the purchase of its chief plant was considered and that its greatest industry will continue just as though no change of ownership had ever been considered; that Frank Huber and Charlie King and their staff of efficient assistants will carry on and continue to operate it in the same conservative and able manner which has made it the great success it has proved to be.

Trouble from Adenoids and Tonsils

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Many letters come to me asking about adenoids and tonsils. Mothers are disturbed because their children snore and fail to breathe properly.

All children are inclined to have sensitive and swollen tonsillar tissues. Some children are thus afflicted to a serious degree.

Of course, most of my readers know exactly where the tonsils are and what they look like. In a normal throat these bodies, one on each side, are not large and do not stick out toward the middle of the space.

If the tonsils are diseased they may be big as walnuts and almost touch each other across the throat. The surface may be smooth or may be filled with crevices or pockets.

Such tonsils are easily inflamed. On this account attacks of tonsillitis or quinsy may be common.

The pharnyx is all that part of the throat between the nasal cavities and the voice box. Between the nose and above the part of the throat you can see when the mouth is opened is a space called the vault of the pharynx.

Hanging down from the top of this dome or vault may be masses of tissue, resembling the material forming the tonsils. The individual parts of these masses are not big, like the tonsils. Collected together they are not unlike bunches of grapes. These are adenoids.

Sometimes these clusters accumulate in the pharnyx until they fill it as completely as a sponge crowded into the space would do so. On this account the voice of the victim of adenoids is nasal, utterly lacking in resonance.

Running from the space I have just described to each ear is a passageway called the "Eustachian tube." This is the drainage tube and ventilating pipe of the middle ear. Unless it is free and open deafness is the result.

If adenoids are present the openings of the Eustachian tube may be stopped up and trouble follows, of course. That is one of the dangers of adenoids.

Just because the tonsils are big is no reason to remove them. But if they are diseased they should be operated on.

I feel differently about adenoids. Their presence interferes with proper breathing and endangers the hearing. You would not have your child deaf or undeveloped from lack of lung action.

Mouth breathing, "snuffles," hawking, spitting, and all the performances undertaken by a child to clear the throat, are evidences of the presence of adenoids. Deafness and attacks of earache should cause you to suspect them.

Have your doctor examine the nose and throat to determine whether special treatment is required.

Why China Survives.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

A few hundreds of thousands of sweating coolies shoulder guns in China today and the transoceanic cables carry stirring news of civil war, but the hundreds of millions that have kept China alive for forty centuries work on in their fields, almost oblivious to the wars and shoutings. Her women pluck mulberry leaves and feed them to silkworms; her men pump by footpower the water that keeps 80,000 square miles of rice fields under water; they seed the rice in nursery beds and, with infinite care, transplant each separate rice stalk; they dig the rich mud from the bottoms of their canals and carry carefully from the cities to their fields the sewage which we spend millions to destroy; they sow cotton amid their wheat before the wheat is harvested; they plant beans amid their barley and make their overworked soil yield three or four crops each year; in their immemorial way they carry on the plodding system of agriculture which has maintained for centuries a density of population almost incredible to the American mind.

At the mouth of the Yangtse river, where that vast torrent deposits the accumulated silt of its thousands of miles of travel, is an immensely fertile island which is adding to itself at the rate of 1,800 feet a year. There is not a city worth calling such on that island, but it has a population density of 3,700 a square mile. A Chinese farmer with a family of twelve will think himself lucky to have two or three acres to himself, and on that tiny area he will maintain a donkey and a buffalo and a pair of pigs—and he will pass on his land to his children with its fertility unexhausted. Nothing is wasted. It is estimated that the 400,000,000 people of China annually return to their fields the equivalent of 150,000 tons of phosphorous, 375,000 tons of potassium and 1,150,000 tons of nitrogen in matter which western countries waste as sewage. In South China even the droppings of silkworms are carefully swept up from the worm trays and returned to small pits dug about the base of the mulberry trees.

Civil wars may come and go; anti-foreign passion may rise and ebb; treaties may be made and unmade; but the people who have brought the basic industry of agriculture to such a pitch of perfection will survive. The historian who compares its achievement, century by century, for a millennium or two past with those of any of the peoples of the West is likely, indeed, to expect of such a people a vastly greater role than the present generation usually assumes.

Poems That Live.

COLORS OF THE MIND.

How strange it is the inner eyes of me
So clearly vision now that once were blind!
Then, uppermost, the colors of my mind
Were gold of sunlight, azure of the sea
Reflected from the skies, the harmony
Of grays and greens, soft stippled by the wind,
Limning a living Iris, love enshrined,
As only Eros' mother well might be.
But now the high lights and the sombre hues
Stand out against each other, sharply drawn,
As when night's shadows, overcome by dawn,
Divide and fail and finally diffuse,
So that which by opaqueness was concealed
Is in the white, clear flame of truth revealed.
—Francis Livingston Montgomery.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Flying across oceans and continents in planes as cheap as cheap motor cars is not an idle dream. Alan Cobham, Englishman who flew to Australia and back from London, sees the air era for all within a few years. That government is the wisest and the most far-seeing which right now encourages aviation and the building of commercial airships. The government that does this is doing two important things—providing for an industrial era greater than ever and providing for the most complete defense possible in time of war.

The trouble with sport in America is that it is all too much business and too little sport. Not only are players in it for income, but the public is coming to be more interested in what tennis stars and baseball stars and prize fighters make than they are in anything else.

Suzanne Lenglen made $100,000 in three months playing professional tennis. Gene Tunney, dollar-a-day marine, will get $1,000,000 the next time he fights. George Young, poor Canadian boy, will make a quick fortune because he won the Catalina swim. Gertrude Ederle, sportswoman who swam the English channel, is getting $2,500 a week on the vaudeville circuit. Babe Ruth got $52,000 for his last season's baseball efforts. He'll probably get $75,000 this season.

Is everything in America going into business?

If you feel queer and have queer thoughts, don't worry. Everybody else is queer too. A noted Chicago mind specialist says all of us have tendencies to some form of insanity. There are different styles in brains. You have one style; somebody else has another. You are tremendously interested in something that your friend isn't interested in at all. You are queer your way and he is queer his way. Don't worry about your brain. It may be different from all those you know about. Also it may be just as good—or better.

A Colorado jailer established a library in his jail. He reports the morale of his prisoners has improved fifty per cent. He says good books make prisoners stop and think, and thinking finally unveils to them their present status in society. It starts prisoners thinking. Thinking is strong mental exercise, and for the most part makes men better. Having plenty of good books in jail is no fancy idea of the psychiatrists. It may prove a sure and simple method of betterment.

LeRoy Griffiths, manager of the Ellery store on north Main street, was badly injured by falling down a flight of stairs at the store.

J. F. Prendergast and W. E. Scofield who owned a controlling interest in the stock of the Marion City Water company, were buying up stock, planning to effect a reorganization.

Benjamin Runkle, employed at the Hotel Majestic, was shot and dangerously wounded by Marshal C. M. McClain, of Morral, while endeavoring to escape from the officer who had arrested him for a threat to kill his, Runkle's, wife's uncle.

Rev. E. G. Mapes entertained at the parishhouse of St. Paul's the members of the cast of "Three Hats."

The Tigers, in a game with the Pythians, rolled 2,561 pins breaking the Y. M. C. A. alleys record.

The Prendergast Lumber and Coal company retired from the local business which was taken over by a new company headed by Oswald Wollenweber, as president, subsequently known as the Marion Lumber company.

Mayor Louis Scherff received a letter of sympathy from the local W. C. T. U. in which it pledged him its support in his fight to make the city dry.

Otis Messenger suffered a broken right leg when an interurban car stopped suddenly and the city car of which he was motorman crashed into it.

It was announced that Marion was to have the district Labor day celebration.

Miss Rosela Fralick and Mr. Elva J. Whiteman eloped to Newport, Kentucky, and were married.

A marriage license was issued to Harry M. Myers and Nellie Wagner.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

The young girls are getting so smart nowadays that the boys are scared of 'em. It's a fact. A lot of these modern girls just naturally wisecrack themselves out of a good prospect for a right good husband and home. They make out like they don't want any husband, you know. Of course, it's all right for a girl to play like she don't want any husband, just so's she don't do too good a job of acting about it. Well, and some of 'em, even after they have got their husband, they wisecrack him so that he has got to commit suicide or something.

One of these girls took her new husband into a restaurant, and while they were eating breakfast they quarrel a little, and she was just ready to hit her bridegroom, who wasn't very big, when the waiter come along.

This here waiter was wanting to earn his tip, so he says:

"Is your egg all right?"

"Oh yes," she says, "he's all right for a little while. I only married him for his money, anyhow."—Copyright, 1927.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. What are the essential things to be followed in constructing a fish pond? L. S. B.

A. The following features should be provided for: Water tightness, so that a small inflow will be sufficient making high temperatures during the summer months; a shallow area, from eighteen to thirty inches deep, where the fish may nest; a deeper area, of six feet or more, for winter quarters; and a fertile bottom for the growth of acquatic plants, upon which fish food depends.

Q. For auction bridge is there any rule providing how the dummy hand shall be arranged on the table—I mean where the trumps shall be placed when it is a trump bid? S. L. H.

A. There is no law of auction requiring dummy to place his trumps in any particular place, and the declarer has a right to rearrange the dummy hand in any way he sees fit, but it is customary for dummy's trumps, if any, to be placed on the declarer's left and on the dummy's right.

Q. What proportion of the average American family allowance for food is spent for dairy products? R. J. R.

A. Studies made by the department of agriculture show that out of each dollar expended for food by the people of the United States, approximately twenty cents is applied to dairy products.

• • •

Q. Is it true that geniuses are generally small? R. W. G.

A. Lombroso in his "Man of Genius" says that greatness and stature are rarely found together. In consulting biographies of a number of great men in American history, however, it has been found that this statement does not always apply. There have been on the whole more prominent men above middle height than below. Among the short men may be numbered John Quincy Adams, Admiral Farragut, John Paul Jones, General Philip Sheridan, Stephen A. Douglas, William H. Seward and Martin Van Buren. On the other hand it is found that Charles Sumner was six feet four; Thomas Jefferson six feet two and one-half; Andrew Jackson six feet one; Samuel Adams, Samuel P. Chase and Jonathan Edwards over six feet; James Monroe six feet or more; George Washington six feet; Benjamin Franklin slightly under six feet; Daniel Webster and Patrick Henry about five feet ten.

Q. In what part of the country is the setting of "Wild Geese," the popular novel by Martha Ostenso? T. B.

A. The following information concerning "Wild Geese" has been received from Martha Ostenso: "I can only say that the location of Yellow Post and Oeland, in my story, 'Wild Geese,' is not really meant to be very definite. The actual district from which I got my material is a section of northern Manitoba, about a day's journey north of the city of Winnipeg."

—There are about twenty first-rate theatrical stars who rarely get nearer a Broadway production than Philadelphia. Time after time they have tried and achieved only dismal flops. One star toured the tanks for five prosperous years, only to lose his entire earnings in a Broadway play lasting four days. Strangely, most of these stars continue their assaults. The cause for their failure is unexplainable. The bulk of theatrical audiences are out of town folk and in their home towns these stars are favorites—but on Broadway the visitors do not want to see them. In lesser roles there are also many doomed to disappointment. Many chorus girls are able to hold jobs, season after season, on tour or in other large cities but on Broadway they soon find themselves "at liberty."

One of those midnight bathing parties where supper is spread on cork tables and guests are served one-piece bathing suits, life preservers and much wine, resulted in sudden cancellation of two tenants leases in a super apartment building the other week. It was all right if guests had stuck to the pool, but at 2 o'clock somebody conceived the bright idea of parading to the main dining-room in their slight costumes. They got in, but wouldn't get out, and the police were called. The ousting of the two hosts followed.

In Broadway theatrical parlance, "Robinson Crusoe and Friday" mean two on the skids. And there are still those young men who send theater treasurers to "Annie Oakley" their tickets—that is punch them with official holes—to give girl friends the impression they stand high with producers and are given passes.

It is amusing to watch the aging and silver-haired boulevardiers along Broadway turn to shepherd's plaid suits and giddy scarves when crow's feet become too pronounced. The ladies of Broadway have no corner on vanity. Nowhere does approaching years strike such pangs of sorrow as among giddy old boys along the playful path where youth alone is supreme.—Copyright, 1927.

Dinner Stories.

An American tells this story about a quick-witted compatriot. Poor Smith doesn't cut a distinguished figure in his evening clothes in a fashionable restaurant in London. Mr. Smith stood near the door waiting for his wife. A tall, pompous Englishman came up and asked: "I say, my man, you the head waitah?"

"No," replied Smith quick as a flash, "but I heard him tell a young fellow this afternoon that he wasn't taking on any more help."

In a remote village, a new letterbox has been put up. This caused much comment among the children who gathered round to discuss what it could be. "I think it belongs to the doctor or the squire," said Billy Jones. "Can't you see it's by the church, so it must be the rector's?" remarked another lad. Said another boy, the smartest one of the crowd: "It's not the rector's. Read what it says on it—'No collection on Sundays.'"

It was known that McSpriggins, the village tight-wad, kept his money in an old sock.

"What!" gasped McSpriggins. "An' let the stock go to waste?"

HENRY FORD.

Henry Ford was born at Greenfield, Michigan, July 30, 1863. He learned the machinist's trade and worked at it in Detroit, later becoming chief engineer for the Edison Illuminating company. In 1903 Ford organized the Ford Motor company and has since become the largest manufacturer of automobiles in the world. His wealth has been estimated by accounting experts as approximately close to $2,000,000,000. In December, 1915, he sailed for Europe with a party of peace advocates to influence the belligerent governments to end the World war, financing the voyage himself. Mr. Ford always has been active in social welfare work and maintains a corps of workers to look after the welfare of Ford employes and families.

CITY PLANNING BODY RECEIVES THREE APPEALS

Property Owners Petition for Extension of City's Commercial District

Three applications for extension of Marion's commercial district in territory that is now restricted for residence purposes under provisions of the zoning ordinance were received by the City Planning Commission at a meeting held yesterday in the office of Mayor Earl M. Hazen.

One application came from owners of property on S. Main-st, who want the commercial district extended on that thoroughfare as far south as Columbia-st. It is reported that deals for the sale of several S. Main-st properties are pending but can not be completed unless the prospective purchasers are assured that the district will be open for business development. The Lust property at the corner of Main and Columbia-sts is one which may be converted to business use in case the commercial district is extended, the planning commission was informed.

John Battenfield, owner of property at the corner of Orchard and Columbia-sts, informed the commission that he has plans under way for establishing a business at this location and requested that it be designated as a part of the commercial district.

Files Application

A. E. Reed, who operates a shop at the rear of 469 W. Center-st, where he constructs automobile bodies, applied for a permit to move his plant into a barn at the rear of his home, 196 S. High-st.

The commission took the three applications under advisement and made arrangements for conducting a survey next Tuesday which will include not only the properties listed in these applications but other sections of streets where commercial district extensions have been advocated.

Several weeks ago the commission was urged to extend the commercial zones on practically all of the main streets leading from the up-town business district. Should favorable action be taken on these proposals, recommendations will be made to have City Council enact necessary amendments to the zoning ordinance.

Meteoric Career Sending Actress "On Top" at 22

Beatrix Thompson

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—There is an old adage that one cannot reach success without suffering or triumph, except over a path cluttered with defeats. Perhaps this axiom, like many others, exists only to prove that there are exceptions. Undoubtedly the case of Beatrix Thompson but recently imported from London for "The Constant Nymph", Broadway stage success, is one of these exceptions.

As she stares at you—wide-eyed, tender and gentle,—one realizes that in this fragile girl lies an intensity which commands attention. But if, as she haltingly remarks—"You want me to tell you about my struggle.? I am afraid there wasn't any."

It seems almost too fabulous to believe that this girl of twenty-two has been on the stage only four years. As she was playing in a graduation performance of Sargent's School of Acting in London, her art aroused the admiration of Basil Dean, English producer. This interest, once aroused, eventuated in a summons from Dean— "Would she come to see him concerning a role in a new play?"

Takes Another's Role

Would she? She did. The role proved to be that of the lead in John Galsworthy's "Loyalties", a part destined for the brilliant but dying Maggie Albanesi, the young genius who lived too short a time to demonstrate the full power of her talents.

So Miss Thompson stepped into her shoes. And for nine months held the center of the stage at St. Martin's Theatre.

Having established herself as a leading lady, the theatrical world at once appraised the art of Beatrix Thompson. Part after part was offered to her, and she has been playing continuously for the last four years in important plays in the West End of London.

Americans Discarded

Naturally, when "The Constant Nymph" was being cast for America, Dean, who had the entire production in charge, having exhausted some twenty or thirty American applicants—because he and the producers had judged it best to cast an American girl in the leading role—was discouraged at finding no young person competent to play this intricate character. Dean finally settled the matter by cabling for Miss Thompson.

Since that opening night, when, as this frail young actress confesses, she was possessed with a thousand fears—since that brilliant opening night Miss Thompson has succeeded in holding her audience completely.

Yet, she concludes, things might have been too easy for her. There may be "rocks" ahead, she fears.

CALLED TO MICHIGAN

Mrs. Thomas Hurley, 361 Windsor-st, was called to Big Rapids, Mich., yesterday afternoon due to the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Margaret A. Liggett.

These Wives of Ours!

WE TOOK them from the shelter of their families, gave them two or three rooms and a share of our salary—then left them sitting there among the wedding presents, a bit bewildered.

But they knew how—these wives of ours. They knew how to make rooms into homes, and how to get more merchandise out of a dollar bill than we ever could. We're lucky to have wives. How do they do it?

Look through this paper, day after day. You will find advertisements covering almost every human need. They are filled with hints for the household, hints for health, hints for clothing, hints for keeping young. They are virtually little essays on life. No wonder these wives of ours follow them so carefully. As one wise wife said: "It isn't so much that I know housekeeping so well. I know where to learn it!"

Most advertising is prepared especially for women. Read it! It forms an authoritative textbook on good housekeeping.

GERMANY READY TO INDORSE PROPOSAL

Berlin, Feb. 11—Germany, ever ready to indorse any measure for disarmament that will bring other nations down to her own level of war making ability, is prepared to indorse President Coolidge's new disarmament proposals. The German press gave the proposals a good display.

"President Coolidge's proposal should be welcomed by all powers since in their desire to limit armaments," said Admiral Von Tirpitz.

"It is the first practical and concrete step since the epoch—making action of former Secretary of State Hughes.

"The president's clear-cut proposal shows up the league in all of its futility.

"While the League talks President Coolidge acts.

"For months the wise men of Geneva have been talking their heads off upon theoretical subjects such as how to change a French army of four million men into 365,000 men."

Soviet officials are also opposed to any measures for disarmament under the auspices of the League of Nations.

COOLIDGE APPLIES ACID TEST TO EUROPE

Washington, Feb. 11—President Coolidge' bold move for a new arms conference has applied the acid test to Europe's sincerity in the matter of further limitation of the world's great navies.

Now, it was said today by officials of this government, the world will see whether Europe's protestations in favor of reduced armament are genuine, or whether they are mere platitudes, without meaning and effect.

The expectation prevails in Washington that Great Britain and Japan will respond favorably to the President's invitation to go to Geneva and finish the work of the Washington Conference. No such optimism, however, prevails as regards France and Italy.

It was France that prevented the Washington Conference from limiting cruisers, submarines, destroyers and the rest of the naval auxiliary craft now proposed to be dealt with at Geneva.

Recall French Attitude

The French in 1921 would consent to no limitation in the number of her submarines, so long as the British navy was permitted to have two and a half times as many capital ships. Italy, too, was recalcitrant on that point, although not so positive as France.

Franco-British relations have not materially improved since 1921, and in addition there has arisen Mussolini in Italy, with his outspoken ambition to revive the glories of the ancient Roman Empire, with the Mediterranean as its lake. It is an ambition that France has regarded in recent years with distinct distrust and misgiving, as exemplified by some recent fiat brandishing in both Paris and Rome.

If France and Italy now accept the Coolidge proposal—that auxiliary naval craft be limited generally along the ratio fixed by the Washington Conference—it means that both countries accept, probably for all time, a position of naval inferiority to the three principal naval powers of the world, the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The ration was established by the Washington Conference as 5-5-3-1.67-1.67—Great Britain and the United States with five, Japan with three, and 1.67 each for France and Italy.

Direct Challenge

The Coolidge proposal is a direct challenge to the whole French position on disarmament, and for that reason there was little expectation today of an early favorable response from Paris.

The president's move came as a complete surprise, it was indicated today, not only of Europe but to congress as well. There is reason to believe, however, that Great Britain was not unduly shocked. The positions of Washington and London on the question of disarmament are so close that it is suspected that the American government would not have moved as boldly had it not been assured beforehand that the move would be welcomed in Downing-st.

It came, however, as a complete surprise to the elements that have been battling in congress over the addition of cruisers to the American navy.

The bigger navy bloc announced today, however, they will not abandon their fight to add three cruisers to the American navy immediately. These cruisers are not competitive arming, members of the bloc declared, but are necessary to bring the navy up to the 5-5-3 ratio provided in 1921. Also, they said, if the Geneva conference goes over, America's delegates may need additional cruisers with which to bargain."

All Washington was looking toward Paris today for the initial response to the president's proposal.

It is said that the brothers, who are principal owners of the prosperous foil concern, held 30,000 shares of stock of the Wheeling & Erie which cost them about $10 a share. They had been purchasing stock since 1920, paying from $7 to $35 a share. It was reported. The stock jumped to $80 a share.

found to contain bottles of whisky and champagne, not the modern bootleg concoctions but sparkling liquids suitable for the requirements of the most exacting tastes.

Place Guard

Tabler placed a guard over the boxes while a message was sent to Erie headquarters stating that a shipment of contraband had been discovered. The reply from headquarters advised Tabler to turn the liquor over to county officials and yesterday this was done, Sheriff Deal taking the four boxes to the jail.

Just what will be done with the stimulant will probably not be known for a few days. It is high-standard stuff and too valuable to destroy, local officials believe, and the problem may be solved finally by turning the entire lot over to some hospital for medical use.

It is probable local officials say, that identity of persons implicated in the shipment will never be ascertained. Experience of prohibition investigators has shown that bogus firm names are used in illicit liquor traffic and it is regarded as practically certain that such will prove to be the case in this transaction.

LISBON'S NORMAL LIFE IS SLOW IN RETURNING

Government Continues Campaign Against Persons Connected with Revolt

Lisbon, Feb. 11—Restoration of normal life in Lisbon was proceeding slowly today following the collapse of the revolution yesterday. Many business houses in both Lisbon and Oporto remained closed, the proprietors fearing further disturbances.

The government continued its campaign of arrests against persons connected with the revolt. Efforts were being made to restore transportation and communication.

The government announced that the revolt had been completely crushed. It is estimated that more than 200 were killed in the fighting at Oporto and Lisbon, and that nearly 1,000 were wounded.

During the fighting in Lisbon the American minister, Fred M. Dearing, took refuge in the home of Secretary Benton after the legation building had been repeatedly struck by rifle fire.

THE McNary-Haugen farm bill will go tripping lightly through congress, aided by the expectation that the president will veto the bill. Congressmen who think the bill shouldn't be passed and is dangerous know that voting for it will help them with the honest farmer.

So they will vote that way, relying on the president to undo their work with his veto. Politics is complicated, however, and even a president may change his mind. If congress is so enthusiastic about that bill he may let them have it.

WARNER FAVORS REPEAL OF UTILITY REFUND ACT

Chairman of Republican State Central Committee Raps Pence Measure

Legislation to prevent public utilities from getting higher rates from the public by placing a bond with the public utilities commission until the commission gets around to pass on the proposed rate increase is being advocated by Fred W. Warner, republican state chairman.

Under the present law public utilities file an application for higher rates and give bond to the public utilities commission. The utility then gets permission to assess the higher rate until the utilities commission decides whether or not the rate is justified.

Warner is urging changes in the Pence law, which governs this practice, which would deny utilities the higher rate until the utilities commission acts on the application for a rate increase.

"Public utility corporations should be required to prove the justness of the proposed increases before being allowed to collect them even temporarily," Warner says.

Tax valuations should be at least 80 per cent of the valuation used in setting rates for public utilities also, Warner says. He charges that public utilities get a value on their property before the public utility commission for the purpose of fixing rates and then attempt to enjoin the collection of taxes on the ground that the property is not worth what the commission says it is.

"If a property is worth $1,000,000 for sandbagging the citizenship of the state for high rates, it ought to be worth at least 80 per cent of that amount for taxation purposes," Warner states.

NIECE OF K. E. BRADLEY AKRON ACCIDENT VICTIM

Phillis Foltz, 5, Killed When Hit by Truck at Street Intersection

While returning from kindergarten late yesterday, Phillis Foltz, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Foltz of 461 N. Portage Path, Akron, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Bradley, 384 Heaney, was instantly killed when she was struck by a heavy truck while crossing the street.

According to police, the driver said that Phyllis, accompanied by another girl, had started across the street in front of him and that he sounded a warning and swerved his truck to avoid striking them. The projecting body of the truck struck the child to her left, however, as the driver was being questioned today.

The victim is the second automobile fatality in Akron this year. A woman pedestrian was struck by an automobile and killed a few days ago.

Women to Become Great Musicians, Says Conductor, Urging Them On

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 11—Although the new year has brought no son to carry on his ingenious baton, but a second daughter, Dr. Arthur Rodzinski, new assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, feels no disappointment. Recently arrived from Europe, he is one of the few champions of women in every field of music; conducting, composing, and performing.

"It makes no difference; there are no rules; women surely can be just as great artists as men," he says.

"What does it matter? Boy? Girl? If they have talent or genius, they are all the same. Great women composers? Let me think. No, I suppose there is none as great as Bach or Beethoven, but look at Liszt's daughter, Cosima, who married Wagner. She was a great artist.

"And performers there are without end. This week we have Wanda Landowska, the harpsichordist. Two weeks ago, Ruth Breton, the violinist. Oh, there are very many.

No Rules for Talent

"You ask me whether musical talent is inherited. Again there are no rules. If there are, ask a physician, not a musician. Yes, I think it is transmitted. Most musical fathers have musical children. But a safer rule is that most great musicians have many children. Look at Bach; he had eighteen, I think."

Dr. Arthur Rodzinski

Dr. Rodzinski has a beautiful eight-year-old boy of his own, Witold, who is now in Europe studying piano and violin, and in whom the young conductor hopes to see a great conductor some day.

"How can you tell?" he asks. "Sometimes at three you can see the genius of a child. If he is physically and nervously fit, he can then go on the stage to do solo work; if not, do not let him. Certainly, I thing musical education is as important as any other kind. When a child is taught to read and write, he should be taught to appreciate music. Not made to study it, no, because practising the piano cannot make a musician.

Wants Child a Musician

"Certainly, I want my child to be a musician, because music is my profession. All day I work and work with scores. Surely there is great American music—great music is great no matter from what country it comes.

"I was born in Spolato, Dalmatia. Then I studied law in Vienna, but soon turned to music. I found Vienna the most perfect city in Europe in which to write music. Yes, it is better than Paris. Both Strauss's, Shubert and many others wrote in Vienna. I conducted the opera in Warsaw. Polish composers? Surely Chopin is enough."

Since coming as the assistant to Dr. Leopold Stokowski, conductor, Dr. Rodzinski has formed two other conclusions—he doesn't like Philadelphia's climate and New York is the greatest city in the world, but too noisy.

TEXT FROM LUKE

Large Congregation Hears Revival Sermon Preached by Rev. Howard

"But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee, and then whose shall these things be which thou hast provided?" was te text of a sermon preached by Rev. W. H. Howard, pastor of First United Brethren Church, at the well-attended week-night revival service at the church last night. The text was taken from chapters 12 and 20 of Luke.

"I do not find anything with the rich that I detest, but I do find in the word of God that the poorest man can be the richest when he arrives at the conclusion that man can no longer supply him," Rev. Howard said. "When we permit ourselves to feast on the good things that the Lord provides for us we will grow and be strong, and the church that follows our example will be strong also.

"The rich man pulled down his barns and built greater ones and then said to his soul, 'Thou hast much goods laid up for many years, take thine ease, drink, eat and be merry,' but the Lord said unto him, 'Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee, then whose shall these things which thou hast provided be?'"

Sunday School night is being observed tonight, at which time the class having the largest attendance will be presented a potted plant. The sermon subject is "Come and See."

Rev. Sain Asks Congregation To Pray In Revival's Behalf

"The Need of Prayer in Relation to a Revival" was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. R. A. Sain of Columbus, who is conducting a revival at Greenwood Evangelical Church, last night at the church. Reverend Sain urged that the congregation in prayer in behalf of the revival.

Services will continue until Feb. 27, with services at 7:30 o'clock each week night except Monday and with a service at 7 o'clock Sunday night.

According to Rev. Irvin Kauffman, pastor of the church, the revival promises to be a most successful one.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

I stared at the Center stupidly, as he stood regarding me with the fixed smile which I had grown so excessively to dislike. He was dressed, as I have said, in full Japanese costume, in a black silk "hifa" with wide sleeves, and white shoes or sandals on his feet. Seen in his national dress, he appeared at once more dignified and more formidable than in his ridiculous European morning coat. He tilted his head back and looked me quietly up and down, while I stood there baffled and angry, feeling rather like a foolish urchin caught with Farmer Jones' apples.

"Sit down, Mr. Quexter," he said quietly, after he has sufficiently inspected me.

"I looked around vaguely, and perceiving a chair, made towards it, but before I could sit down he stopped me with a gesture.

"I forget," he said. "You came, of course, by secret chimney way, not used for a long time, though once very useful passage. You rather sooty. Find clothes brush in left-hand drawer of table."

Mechanically I sought the drawer he indicated and presently found myself obediently brushing my coat and the knees of my trousers, while the little Japanese turned his back towards me and busied himself with the contents of a small cupboard which I had not previously noticed. My mind was a complete blank except for one thought. I was alone with my formidable adversary in his private sanctum, caught in the act of examining his private files.

As I sat down he turned around, holding in his hands a small tray on which stood what looked very much like a highball.

"Drink," he said, tendering me the tray.

I took the glass but paused before raising it to my lips.

The Center noted my hesitation.

"Have no fear," he continued, "only good Scotch whisky in glass and soda water. Japanese not poison honored guests. For me I drink but sake, rice wine of native country. You permit me—yess?"

I nodded mutely and drank. It was, as he had said, excellent Scotch whisky and proved a most welcome draught.

"So you interested in my occupations. Yess?" he went on, sipping his rice wine and continuing to regard me with his inscrutable smile. I found my tongue at last.

"Yes, I am," I said. "I now begin to appreciate the full extent of your criminal transactions."

His eyebrows went up slightly and he raised one hand in a courteous gesture of reproach.

"You disagreeable plain man, Mr. Quexter. Always refer to unworthy much honored host as criminal. This not usual in Japan, customs of great white peoples different."

His contemptuous words and the glance which accompanied them infuriated me, and I replied hotly that I was not his guest, but his prisoner and that he well knew it.

He did not seem to notice my remark, however, but continued to gaze at me quietly with a disconcerting stare. At last he nodded.

"Why not?" he said. "You intelligent, clever man like old Athenians who always look for some new thing—yess? Perhaps I satisfy insatiable Western curiosity and remove bad impression of honored Japanese host. You already examined some of my papers. I now show you rapid sketch of whole organization. What you call bird's-eye view—yess?"

He looked at me as though expecting some reply, but I remained silent, determined to give him no further target for his sarcastic shafts.

He rose from the desk at which he was sitting and approached the safe let into the wall which he unlocked with a key taken apparently from his sleeve. Swinging open the heavy door, he took a bunch of keys from the interior and turned to his desk. Bending down, he unlocked two or three drawers, and taking the documents which they contained, laid them on the desk before him.

"Here we have whole scheme in neat bundle, all in red tape, according to habit of orderly European governments," he continued. "Organization international in scope and action; what amiable officials of League of Nations and pious ministers of Western countries call universal co-operation of peoples. We happy band of brothers, all working for happiness of human race. Human race nasty, miserable peoples, very frail, living in most unhappy place. As preaching man say on Sunday world very bad business, lachrymarum vallis—vale of tears. For most peoples hard work all life long. Little play. Little leisure. No time for appreciation of beauty. Big fight always make both ends meet. Is that not so—yess?"

He paused a moment, while I wondered what was coming next and what was the meaning of this strange exordium.

"Mr. Quexter," he resumed, "how many you think successful in struggle for existence?"

"It depends on what you mean by success," I said, still mystified.

"Oh, I mean not very much," he replied. "I set very low standard. Keep wolf from door and go to grave naked as came into world. You have no idea? I tell you. About three in ten."

"I don't see what all this has got to do with you and your poisonous traffic," I rejoined.

"All in one minute, Mr. Quexter," was the answer. "Western patience never equal to Western curiosity. What becomes of other seven, not successful? Some fight industrious way into grave or bankruptcy court. Rest join criminal classes. Very sad picture, but all quite honest and correct, and no man ever found remedy for so deplorable state of affairs. Many great men tried to find remedy—Confucious, Laotsze and Buddha in civilized Eastern countries. Socrates in ancient civilized Western country. Christ and Mohammed among barbarous modern peoples; all very good men but all fell because good men no use in wicked world."

"No use driving out devils. Make place all swept and garnished, as Christian Holy Book says, and seven devils more black than last take long lease of vacant premises. Prophets no use to human race; never find convenient way."

"Perhaps not from a worldly point of view," I put in, by this time beginning to be strangely intrigued by this extraordinary conversation.

He was on me like a flash.

"Just so," he said. "You intelligent man, Mr. Quexter. You agree prophets no use in wicked world. Prophets know that, too. So they invent soul as comfort for miserable body and make peoples prepare for future life outside world. Very clever tale of happiness beyond coffin, to give miserable human race hope, keep them satisfied with present miseries. Very good plan. Give peoples doctrine. Drug miserable minds with pleasant notions—Abraham's bosom, crystal sea, glory of kingdom come, harps for saintly persons and houris for more fierce type. But I find better plan. I not concerned with next world. I not give happiness in sepulcher. I give happiness in earthly abode to live peoples—not only to rich peoples but to poor peoples, for whom there is quite different pair of boots, as you say. I bring rest and happy notions to totally destitute. I true apostle of poor peoples. I make them forget all miseries. I true peace harbinger. By aid of little, bright-leafed, green plant of cocoa or juice of waving white poppy, I bring small temporary comfort to peoples, all that is possible in world out of joint and very painful. Perhaps now you understand that honored Japanese host not mere malefactor but gives benefits to mankind in only convenient way. I introduce ancient Chinese custom into miserable Western countries, teach European peoples find remedy for bad world in pipe of peace."

I listened to this strange discourse with an increasing amazement. Was the man seriously making his apologia pro vita sua or was he just amusing himself at my expense, deliberately mocking my simple American mind with his Oriental subtleties. I looked at him carefully but could detect no flicker of expression on his face, whether of derision or of prophetic fire. The only thing clear to me was his profound contempt of the whole human species. With superb insolence, worthy of Lucifer himself, he regarded mankind as a poor creature to be deluded or drugged into a temporary ease which was all they might ever hope to achieve.

For Mrs. Baker

"DO?" repeated Lillian, as I voiced my perplexity over my promise to Mary that I would "settle" Mrs. Baker. "There's only one possible thing to do and that is to go ahead just as you have planned. If Mary's appeal to you was on the square you owe it to her to see that the Baker woman does not bother her any more. If, on the other hand, she was talking at the instigation of the fourth floor pest and trying to throw dust in your eyes, it surely is best for you to convince them that you have swallowed their made up story—hook, line and sinker. How better could you do that little thing than by going up to that woman's room and laying her out with a bombardment based upon Mary's story to you. Oh, girl! What I'd give to have your chance at her."

"You may have it," I said so hastily that Lillian chuckled.

"I wonder if it would do," she reflected with a gamin-wistfulness in her tones, then she shook her head reluctantly.

"No it wouldn't. To have the thing appear perfectly natural and a logical result of Mary's story you'll have to be the goat. But how I envy you the job."

"I can't go up now," I said. "It's too early."

"No," Lillian agreed. "She never would be out of bed at this time, when her usual hour of coming home is—what is it? You'd better wait until nearly noon. Mary'll be back by then, and I don't believe it will be a bad idea at all for her to be within hearing distance when you're ostensibly handing the gifted Mrs. Baker her comeuppance—sort of lend an air of verisimilitude to the affair."

"I don't see how I'm going to manage Mary's knowledge of what I say to Mrs. Baker," I returned dubiously. "I cannot stage my meeting with the woman in the hall with possible auditors, and if I were in that fourth floor room with the door closed Mary couldn't possibly hear what I was saying."

Lillian looked at me oddly.

"Have you any idea floating around in your noodle that I'm going to let you stage any interview with that loathsome lizard in her own room with the door closed?"

A certain little constricting band around the muscles of my throat loosened its hold. I had not realized how terrifying to me was the idea of meeting Mrs. Baker alone until Lillian's assurance dispelled my fear. Never since my first sight of the woman as she attempted to spy upon me through the keyhole of my living room had I been free from a loathing and terror of her as formless as it was unreasonable.

"Oh! But I'm glad!" I exclaimed heartily. "Why I dread that woman I don't know, but whenever I'm near her I have a feeling that a cobra is flattening its head at me."

"You wouldn't be far wrong at that," Lillian retorted, "except that you ought to apologize to the snake.

"But where can we manage the talk with her?" I asked, for I knew that Lillian already must have formulated some plan.

"What's the matter with Katherine's room?" Lillian countered. "Katherine can give Junior his nap in your room, so there'll be nothing to disturb you, and as there's a door from that room to Mary's, she'll be able to listen to the conversation with or without Mrs. Baker's knowledge."—Copyright, 1927, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Penetrates to the Sore Spot

Relief in a Jiffy

A LAME back, a strained muscle or aching joints will stop paining and become natural if you will apply a little of that old-fashioned liniment known as Mexican Mustang. Because of its magical penetrating action—it goes through the outer layers of the skin without burning or a trace of blister, right to the sore spot. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Keep it in your home ready for use. You will not be disappointed with Mexican Mustang Liniment.

Even the healthiest men sometimes have aches

TORMENTED BY ACUTE NEURITIS

Crippling aches quickly relieved by simple home remedy

Freed from the crippling pain of neuritis after having tried various treatments without getting relief, a well-known business man of Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"Following influenza I was stricken with a violent attack of neuritis in the right arm and shoulder. I got no relief until I used Sloan's Liniment. The affected arm and shoulder were literally saturated in a liberal application and all pain and symptoms disappeared.

"Sloan's gives real relief because it doesn't just deaden the pain. It goes at the cause.

"Just try it on gently. At once you feel the increased flow of tingling, pain-destroying blood right to the spot. Then have Quickly and surely, it relieves pain, sore and inflammation, gently and effectively. Kills pain. Get a bottle. All druggists—35 cents.

Because they feel that women and children who are the victims of matrimonial shipwreck are less likely to receive justice at the hands of a man judge than from a woman the Women's Civic Committee of Brooklyn, N. Home Treatment For Gall Stones Highly Praised

Reports from Many Grateful Users Say It Saved Them an Operation, Pain and Unnecessary Loss of Time

For over a year now, Many druggists throughout the middle west have been recommending an inexpensive little pellet called "Klar-Ko" for the successful home treatment of gall stones, gall bladder trouble and hepatic torpidity.

According to written reports the simple home use of "Klar-Ko" tablets has produced wonderfully beneficial results in hundreds of cases. Men and women of all ages, but particularly those in middle life seem to be especially benefited. One man says—"I suffered greatly from gall stone and liver trouble. Doctor said I must have an operation. The night before I was scheduled for the hospital a friend insisted I try "Klar-Ko" tablets first. I commenced to feel better and in a few days was out of the house and back to work and I haven't ever had an attack since. I surely am grateful for Klar-Ko."

If you are bothered by dizzy spells, headaches, shortness of breath, gas in stomach and bowels, pressure or sharp pains in right side that often extend through to the back, coated tongue, bad breath, lack of ambition, nervousness and restless nights, you should give "Klar-Ko" tablets a trial at once, and you are invited to do so without slightest risk of cost unless fully pleased with results. Ask Bradley Drug Store or any good druggist for Klar-Ko today.—Adv.

Hemorrhoid Sufferers

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by Heaney & Cooper and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of piles sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Don't delay. Try HEM-ROID today. It will do the same for you.—Adv.

NOT TO SETTLE THIRD TERM ON HOUSE FLOOR

Resolution of Wisconsin Representative Will Not Be Put on Calendar

Washington, Feb. 11—The question of President Coolidge's moral right to seek another term in the White House will not be settled on the floor of either house of congress, it appeared today.

While administration leaders in the house were taking prompt steps to block consideration of the anti-third term resolution offered by Representative Beck, Republican, of Wisconsin, Democratic leaders in the senate rejected overtures to raise the issue in that body.

The Wisconsin congressman's resolution, drafted after he had consulted many other progressives, was regarded as due notice that the opponents of President Coolidge would try to keep the third-term issue in the forefront until the election in 1928.

In some quarters it was regarded as a retaliatory move by farm relief forces to offset the continued effort of opponents of the McNary-Haugen bill to convince congress that President Coolidge will veto the bill if passed.

Won't Get On Calendar

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader, promptly declared that the Beck resolution would not get on the house calendar.

"I certainly think that the place for that question to be settled is among the people and in the Republican convention and not in congress," he said.

An equally emphatic declaration came from Representative Snell, Republican, of New York, chairman of the rules committee which makes up the house program.

"Congress has got a lot more important things to attend to," he declared. "The matter may be raised in a convention, but it hasn't any business in the sixty-ninth congress."

Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas had drafted a similar resolution for presentation in the senate but has deferred the proposal after conferring with colleagues, it became known today.

Few will follow that eager nervous miser of time who begrudges his sleep.

Sore Throat

Stopped in 15 Minutes

No longer will it be necessary to gargle or to choke with nasty tasting patent medicines to relieve sore throat. One swallow of a famous physician's prescription called Thoxine is guaranteed to relieve within 15 minutes. Kills the germs, far superior to gargles.

Thoxine does not contain iron, chloroform or dope. It has a pleasant taste and is harmless and safe for children. Sold under money-back guarantee of quick relief. 35c., 60c. and $1.00. Sold at Bradley's Drug Store, Weimer's and all good drug stores.—Adv.

Farmers Advised to Study Europe Use of Electricity

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 11—Midwest farmers now making only limited use of electrical power, would do well to study the development of electricity for farm use as is done in Europe, E. A. Stewart, of the Minnesota College of Agriculture said upon his return here from a trip to Europe.

Mr. Stewart, who is with the engineering divisions, made extensive investigations in Europe while on a vacation there, and says that from 60 to 70 per cent of the farms of Germany have electric service, from 40 to 45 per cent in Sweden, 40 per cent in Norway, 25 per cent in Denmark, 10 per cent in Switzerland and five per cent in France.

"Germany's leadership," he declares, "is attributed to the fact that most of the German farmers live in small villages. This has made it possible to reach their houses with electric service at moderate cost. In spite of the fact that the service centers in villages, many thousands of threshing rigs are driven by electric motors."

Sweden seems to lead in the number of electrically driven threshing machines. Mr. Stewart says it has been estimated that 50,000 such machines are in use in Sweden.

"The next common use of electric motors is for operating hay hoists," Stewart reports. "A very large percentage of barns in Switzerland and in Sweden as well as in Germany are equipped with hay hoists and in practically all cases where electricity is available it is used for the operation of such machines.

"The electric hot plate and flat iron are coming into common use. In farm work, also, the electric pump and milking machines are increasing in popularity. Other uses include plowing, drying of grain, heating of churches, greenhouses, cold frames, curing ensilage, lighting of poultry houses, spraying of orchards, and similar activities.

SUNDAY NEWS Will Pay

New York's Picture Newspaper

$10,000.00 in Cash Prizes

For Best Answers to A New Patriotic Game of Presidents!

CAN YOU CUT APART THE THREE PICTURES of Presidents of the United States printed above and put them together right? The SUNDAY NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, will pay $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes for best answers to this new Patriotic Game of Presidents.

Here Are the Rules:

1. Every Sunday for 10 weeks a Set of Composite Pictures of Presidents of the United States will be printed in the Rotogravure Section of the SUNDAY NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper.

Set No. 1 which appeared in last Sunday's SUNDAY NEWS is reprinted above for the benefit of those who were unable to secure a copy last Sunday. You can start with the pictures shown above. They will count. Then get Set No. 2 in next Sunday's SUNDAY NEWS.

2. Each Set of Pictures, when cut apart and put together properly, will make complete portraits of American Presidents. The public is invited to assemble the pictures and send them in. The SUNDAY NEWS will pay $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes for the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of Pictures. (See Prize List above.)

3. The contest is open to everybody—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the SUNDAY NEWS and their families. It does not matter where you live.

4. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. The Composite Pictures must be cut out, assembled and pasted or pinned together. Below each picture must be written the name of the President and the years of his administration. Give only first and last years of administration. (For example, Warren G. Harding, 1921-1923.)

6. In all, 29 Pictures will be printed—one of each President. Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets of 29. Hold all Pictures until you have the complete set of 29. Then send them to "Presidents," the SUNDAY NEWS, Post Office Box 195, City Hall Station, New York City, N. Y. Write your name and address clearly on your entry. All Pictures must be in by midnight 21 days after Set No. 10 is published. We cannot undertake to return any entries.

The Prizes:

1st Prize		$2,500.00
2nd Prize		1,000.00
3rd Prize		500.00
Next 15 prizes	$100 each	1,500.00
Next 25 "	$50 "	1,250.00
Next 40 "	$25 "	1,000.00
Next 155 "	$10 "	1,550.00
5 Special Prizes to Teachers	$100 each	500.00
251 Prizes		$10,000.00

7. Each entry should be sent by first-class mail—postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Contestants may send as many sets as they wish, but no contestant shall be entitled to more than one prize. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.

8. To encourage school teachers to assist their pupils, five special prizes of $100.00 each will be awarded to the five teachers whose pupils submit the best entries.

9. You need not purchase the SUNDAY NEWS to compete. You may copy or trace the Pictures from the Originals and assemble the Pictures from the copies you have made. The SUNDAY NEWS may be examined at any of its Offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

10. The Judges will be a committee appointed by the SUNDAY NEWS. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be given each tying contestant.

The 3 Presidents in Set No. 1 Are Among These

Open to Everybody! Try Your Skill!

Remember, this Patriotic Game of Presidents is open to everyone—boys, girls, men and women. Try it! It's easy! An entertaining and educational game to familiarize every one with all the Presidents in American history.

$10,000.00 in Cash Prizes will be paid for the best answers. Start at once with Set No. 1 printed above. They will count! Then get Set No. 2 in next Sunday's SUNDAY NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper. Save all the Pictures until you have 10 sets—then send them in.

Teachers—Notice! One of the most important features of this patriotic Game is to increase the knowledge of American history among young and old. Therefore, as announced above, the SUNDAY NEWS will award five special prizes of $100.00 each to the five teachers whose students submit the best entries. Help your school children win!

WIRE INSULATION CATCHES FIRE; DEPARTMENT CALLED

Firemen from engine house No. 1 were called to the home of Mrs. Clara Hensell, 756 Cheney-av, at 6:40 last night when insulation on electric wiring caught fire while a radio battery was being charged with current from a light socket.

A short circuit is believed to have caused the blaze. Two firemen made the run to the Hensell home in Chief McFarland's car and found that there had been no damage aside from destruction of insulation on a small section of wire leading to the radio charger.

CLEMENTS RELEASED AFTER CASE IS HEARD

Dismissal Given in Municipal Court for Lack of Evidence

C. W. Clements, 35, of Homer-st, arrested on a non-support charge filed by J. F. Ullom, Marion County Humane Society officer, was released yesterday afternoon after a hearing in Municipal Court. The case was dismissed for lack of evidence, the court record shows.

Clements was accused of having failed to provide for his five children, whose ages range from one to 12 years.

Clements' wife and mother-in-law testified in his behalf, both asserting that he has provided for his family to the best of his ability.

Humane Society officials claimed that the Clements family has received numerous donations from the city's relief department and local charity organizations.

FORMER LOCAL DRAYMAN DIES IN COUNTY HOME

James Eckroth, 65, a former drayman here, died at 5:30 o'clock last night at the County Home, where he was admitted from Marion Dec. 16, 1926. Death was due to apoplexy. He had been ill only a short time. No knowledge has been gained of surviving relatives.

Reports showing a substantial increase of deposits and resources during 1926 were read and three members of the board of directors whose terms expire this year were reelected at the annual stockholders' meeting of the People's Building, Savings & Loan Co. held yesterday at the company's office, 131 S. State-st.

M. C. O'Brien, C. W. Mapes and Hoke Donithen were re-elected directors for three year terms. Other members of the board, whose terms extend beyond this year, are A. C. Edmondson, W. J. Gorton, Josiah Bindley, J. F. Prendergast, John Baldauf, J. M. Schneider and George E. Frank.

The board will elect officers at its next meeting, to be held March 7.

TURKEY'S GRAND OLD MAN HAS RIVAL CLAIMING 147

Constantinople, Feb. 11.—Zaro Agha, Turkey's "Grand Old Man," who is reputed to be 153, has a competitor in the race for longevity in Teku Oglu Ali Agha, who claims to be 147.

Ali Agha appeared as a witness in a case in the courts here, and the announcement of his age caused a mild sensation. It was nevertheless established to be true.

Ali enjoys the full use of his mental activities, is robust, and has a good appetite. He has a remarkable memory and recalls events which took place 135 years ago.

MORE THAN 100 ATTEND KIWANIS LADIES' PARTY

Upper Sandusky Attorney Gives Address on President Abraham Lincoln

More than 100 persons, making up practically the entire membership of the Marion Kiwanis Club, and their wives and friends attended the Valentine party given last night at Hotel Harding.

The affair started with a dinner at 6:30. The Harding High School orchestra furnished music. Mrs. Karl W. Schell gave several vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. James C. Woods. Valentines were favors and the silent boost of the Club was given by C. Z. Zachman, who presented each woman present with a fancy bottle of vinegar.

The address of the affair was given by Attorney John Carey, of Upper Sandusky, and his talk dealt largely with the life and services of Abraham Lincoln.

SECOND DOG OWNER IS SUMMONED INTO COURT

Strict Enforcement of Tag Law Indicated by Sheriff's Action

The state law requiring all dogs to be provided with tags is to be rigidly enforced in Marion County.

This was indicated today when Max Mouser of Belmont-st was ordered to appear in Municipal Court to be arraigned on charges filed by Sheriff James A. Deal, alleging that he is the owner of an untagged dog.

Mouser is the second dog owner summoned into court on this charge in the last two days. Yesterday Charles Nutter of Nell-av pleaded guilty to having failed to register his dog and purchase a tag and he was fined $5 and costs by Municipal Judge Martin.

These arrests follow warnings that have been issued recently from offices of both the sheriff and county auditor, in which dog owners were advised to comply with the registration law at once.

All dogs should have been registered on or before Jan. 20, but at that time it was estimated that there were at least 1,000 in the county for which tags had not been purchased.

GIVEN FINES

Two Men Appear Before Forest Mayor on Own Initiative

Kenton, Feb. 11—Cases of three of the five defendants arrested here a week ago in a series of sensational raids conducted by 15 state and federal agents, were disposed of yesterday by Mayor Jean Simpson of Forest, with the pronouncement of sentence.

Trials of the remaining defendants who pleaded not guilty at their preliminary arraignment before the Forest mayor following the raids, are to be held probably next week.

A total of 10 men were arrested during the raids on various charges of liquor law violations, five of them entering guilty pleas upon arraignment. They were dismissed upon payment of heavy fines.

Three Fined

The three who were tried Wednesday and fined Thursday were Scott Roby, M. L. Anerson and Jay Jordan. Roby was found guilty of charges of keeping a place where liquor was sold and was fined $400 and costs. Charges of possession against him were dismissed. He plans to appeal his case.

Anderson, found guilty on charges of possession, selling and keeping a place where liquor was sold, was fined $250 and costs and ordered commited until the fine is paid.

Jay Jordan, who pleaded guilty to possession charges, was fined $500 and costs. The charge of selling was dismissed on the grounds that the affidavit was defective. No new one was filed.

Two other men, Robert Hayes and B. Williams, against whom affidavits were sworn following the raids here but who could not be found at the time, appeared before the Forest mayor yesterday and the trial dates set for the coming week. They appeared before the executive after learning that they had been named in affidavits.

WYANDOT RESIDENT IS HEART DISEASE VICTIM

John Roch Dies After Long Illness; Funeral Held Today

Nevada, Feb. 11—John Roch died at his home in Wyandot, at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, after a long illness with dropsy, followed by heart trouble.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roch, and was born June 22, 1856.

He was married to Margaret Comstock, to which union five children were born. One son, Ralph is deceased. The surviving children are Mrs. Arthur Snodgrass, of near Nevada, Mrs. Wm. Nola and Delpha Roch, of Columbus, and Wayne Roch, at home. Two sisters also survive, Mrs. John Burns and Mrs. Emory Gelbaugh, of Shelby.

The deceased had been a resident of Wyandot since his marriage.

Funeral services were held from the Baptist church, at Wyandot at 2:00 p. m. today with services in charge of Rev. Sloan, of Morral.

WYANDOT VAULT COMPANY SEEKING DISSOLUTION

Upper Sandusky, Feb. 11—A petition has been filed in common pleas court by the directors of the Wyandot Burial Vault Co. asking for the dissolution of the old corporation whose plant, stock, properties and effects were destroyed by fire in March, 1925. The firm has since been reorganized under the new name of the Wyandot Vault Co., has rebuilt the factory on the old site and is doing an excellent business.

County Officials Persist That Victim Met Death in Shanty Where Body Was Found; Identity Established by Galion Junk Dealer

Bucyrus, Feb. 11—Employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad shops at Crestline are inclined to scout the theory that George Wilson, murdered man whose body was found near Crestline, was killed in the shack where his body was found. They believe that the body was brought to the shack and left there by the persons or person who were anxious to get rid of it. They point to the leaves stuffed in his mouth and tied around his throat as substantiating evidence.

County officials, however, persist in their belief that Wilson was killed in the shack. Through the efforts of Chief of Police Cook of Galion the body of the dead man was identified as that of George Wilson, resident of Galion for a short time this winter, by Dave Needles, Galion junk dealer. Needles said that Wilson came to Galion with John Gates, Dec. 21 and both men went to work for him. They lived in an unfurnished room on Ribleet, sleeping on sacks. Recently both men quit work and left Galion. Gates is reported to have told Needles that Wilson had lots of money as he worked on a steamer on the Great Lakes last summer. Officials are searching for Gates as they believe that he may know something about the murder. No charges have been placed against him.

GALION DEALER IDENTIFIES MAN

Galion, Feb. 11—The identity of the man found murdered in a shack along the Pennsylvania tracks last Sunday was established yesterday. David Needles, owner of the Galion Scrap & Iron Co., identified the body as that of George Wilson who had made his home in Galion since the first of January and who was practically unknown except for a few business acquaintances. Coming here with a partner whose name was given as John Gates, a junk business was started and it was through business transactions that Needles came to know the men.

Always Together

The partners lived in a house on N. Pierce-st and were always seen together. When last seen the pair were driving on the road near the scene of the murder, early Saturday night. Later a farmer living near saw Gates leave the shack unaccompanied, according to officials. It was not until noon of the next day that the body was discovered by a tramp who stopped to rest in the shed.

Gates was seen again in the city late Saturday and is reported to have been in his rooms for a short time. Since that time he has not been seen, although police are seeking him in connection with the crime.

LARGE AUDIENCE SEES 'WILLOWDALE' PRESENTED

Excellent Cast in Play Given in Cardington School Auditorium

The cast follows: Joel Bassett, postmaster-storekeeper, Harry Barre; Lem Hackett, Jasper Meiser; Simon Pinner, Cecil Jackson, both frequent visitors at the Bassett store; Mrs. Bassett (Joel's wife), Ethel Mahan; Rosetta Gates, Florence Kinney; Rev. Prosser, Paul Taylor; Oleander, (who thinks life is a joke), Mary Corwin; Joseph Godfrey, a lawyer, Robert Barre; Millie Bassett (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Bassett) Margella McKee; Tom Skerreck, suitor to Millie Bassett, Milton McKee; Miss Hazey (somewhat demented), Ethel Kinney; Clarence Dinsmore (a school teacher) Merle Culver.

The story of the play centers about the suit of Tom Skerreck and Joseph Godfrey for the hand of Millie. As Mrs. Bassett, in opposition to the entire family, favors her marriage to the young lawyer she has much difficulty in winning them to her views. After she thinks she has fully succeeded and the wedding is at hand and the ceremony being performed it is revealed that Millie and her father have won out and she has already been joined to the man of her choice, Tom Skerreck.

The cast was selected by Merle Culver, home at Sparta, on a vacation from Hollywood, Cal., who has been in various motion picture productions, including Harold Lloyd's "The Freshman." Mr. Culver chose the play and had charge of the production, and also enacted the role of the sporty school teacher. The Hand H. Four furnished music.

Galion, Feb. 11—G. R. James of Galion has been elected one of the vice presidents of the Johnny Appleseed district of Boy Scouts. The election took place at a dinner at the Elks Grill at Mansfield which was attended by over a hundred scouts including a number of Galion representatives.

CALEDONIA LADIES' AID SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Caledonia, Feb. 11—An all day meeting of the Christian Ladies Aid Society was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. John George. The time was spent quilting. A pot-luck dinner was served at the noon hour. The business session was opened with song. The Scripture lesson read by Mrs. W. V. Boterf and the Lord's prayer repeated in unison. The ladies planned to hold a bake sale Saturday, Feb. 26, at Gertrude Seckles Millinery Store.

MISSING CARDINGTON AUTOMOBILE RECOVERED

Cardington, Feb. 11—The Ford coupe belonging to Carl Davis reported missing Wednesday night was recovered yesterday morning. Davis had left the car along the pike a short distance north of town. It was found at the Mrs. D. W. Harbook farm only a short distance farther north, but had evidently been driven quite a distance because of decreased quantity of gas in the tank and other indications.

GILEAD TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU CONDUCTS RALLY

Mt. Gilead, Feb. 11—The Farm Bureau workers of Gilead Township held a rally at the Presbyterian Church yesterday at which the Ladies' Aid of that church served a dinner. The most important speaker at this meeting was Rev. W. B. Robinson of Ontario. Other talks were given by Mrs. E. L. Rusk of Washington Township, R. J. Elliott, of Mansfield. Readings and musical numbers were given by Mrs. J. E. Watson of Franklin Township, and Mrs. Harry Kelly.

WILLIAMS NAMED

Marysville, Feb. 11—A recent bulletin given out by Ohio State University announces the name of Paul Williams of Marysville to represent Union County on the "Committee of 88" to establish a closer relationship between the university and the state at large. Williams is a graduate of Marysville High School of the class of 1922.

How can you expect to have a good complexion if your kidneys are not right?

Mrs. Henry F. Lichtsinn

Fort Wayne, Ind.—"I was suffering a lot with my kidneys, there were times when they would be too active then they would not function. My back ached, my feet and ankles would swell and specks would appear before my eyes. I took Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and the backaches disappeared, also the swelling left my feet and ankles. All this made me feel like a new person."—Mrs. Henry F. Lichtsinn, 1119 Liberty-st. All druggists.

Anuric is the creation of a physician who will give you medical advice at any time without charge. Just write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., describing your symptoms.—Adv.

The speakers on the program were Mr W. E. Krauter of Bucyrus, who discussed the Corn Borer problem; Dr. Sifritt, County Health doctor, gave a talk on "Rabies", and Mrs. Hauptli on "Home Control in Relation to Child Health," after which she conducted a question box. The music of the afternoon was furnished by a girls chorus, a boys chorus and a mixed chorus, all from the high school.

Thursday night's session began at 8 o'clock, with music by the school orchestra, directed by Mr. J. L. Grimm, instructor of instrumental music. Two numbers were played. "March" and "Romance". D. M. Burson of the Y. M. C. A. of Marion gave a splendid talk on "Playing Square with the Young Folks."

John Sites presented a cornet solo, and the orchestra played another selection "Southern Sketch." Mr. H. C. Ramsower of the Ohio State University, gave a very interesting lecture on "Co-operation", showing beautiful colored slides taken by himself in Denmark, England and Scotland.

Two sessions were held today at 10 o'clock and at 1:30 with a community dinner at 12 o'clock. Tonight the basketball game between Green Camp and Prospect, boys and girls teams, will be played.

MT. GILEAD HIGH SCHOOL INSTRUCTOR IS SPEAKER

C. C. Gray Addresses Blackbird Community Club on Agricultural Problems

Mt. Gilead, Feb. 11—C. G. Gray, instructor in vocational agriculture at Mt. Gilead High School, spoke last night at the monthly meeting of the Blackbird Community Club at the schoolhouse.

Mr. Gray discussed present agricultural problems and the merits of pending legislation to relieve them.

He emphasized co-operation and economic production as possible aids in solving the present agricultural depression.

A program was given by members of the club, including a recital of the most familiar incidents in the life of Lincoln by Mr. Chipps.

MIDDLESWORTH SUIT IS DISMISSED UNTIL MARCH

Marysville, Feb. 11—The case of Pearl Middlesworth vs. F. S. Hager, sheriff, and others was postponed yesterday to be resumed some time in March. The case is a suit to recover for damages filed by Middlesworth against local officers whom he claims are responsible for damages to his car and injuries sustained by him when the officers blockaded a highway for the purpose of stopping a rum-runner.

WALDO MAN IS GRANTED INCREASE IN PENSION

The claim for an increase in pension made by Thomas Glaze, Waldo, member of Company K, Fouth Ohio Infantry, during the Spanish-American War, has been granted by the Bureau of Pensions, according to notice sent him by Congressman Brooks Fletcher.

Mr. Glaze has been placed on the pension roll at $20 per month dating from June 4, 1926 and at $30 per month dating from December 15, 1926.

Wentworth Stewart, Concord, Mass., Nationally-Known Lecturer and Representative of Kiwanis International Is Principal Speaker

Kenton, Feb. 11— More than 150 members of the Kiwanis Club, their ladies and guests, participated in the annual ladies' night dinner and dance given by Kiwanians in the Elks Home last night.

Wentworth Stewart, of Concord, Mass., nationally known lecturer and representative of Kiwanis International, delivered the principal address, stressing the importance and necessity for unselfish service and for fellowship and friendly co-operation in working for the common good.

"We must learn to live happily together before we can hope to solve the world's problems," said Mr. Stewart. "Jealousies and suspicions among peoples and the nations of the world are dangerous and must be destroyed.

"If Europe hates us it is their fault; we owe them nothing, they owe us much. Since the close of the war the United States has extended both hands in helpfulness to the unfortunate." The speaker bitterly scored those who term Americans a "dollar grabbing" people.

Clever novelty entertainment was provided by Frances Rose Jauman, Mrs. Rose Fast and Jean Von Lehmden, all of Delphos, while Prof. Owen Roberts, Kenton, and Alex Caldwell, Toledo, sang a group of solo selections with Miss Marguerite Strahm playing the accompaniments.

The program was in charge of Carl W. Smith Kiwanis president, while the following committee was in charge of general arrangements; D. C. Holtzberry, W. T. Augur, W. T. Johnson, Carl W. Smith and N. J. Alexander.

SLEEPS RIGHT THROUGH THE NIGHT AFTER 20 YEARS OF BLADDER AND KIDNEY WEAKNESS

Amazing Story of 63-Year-Old Man Who Relieved Kidney, Bladder and Rheumatic Pains Through the Use of MATAMEL, MADE FROM SAP OF THE MAGUEY PLANT.

Suppose you were 63 years old, had suffered with kidney and bladder torture for one-quarter of a century—so bad, in fact, you had to give up your job and expected the worst almost any time. Suppose you spent thousands of dollars for doctors and prescriptions, all without success—would you try a natural herb cup discovered by a former professor at one of America's best colleges who worked years in Mexico to bring it to your town?

That was the problem that faced Mr. William Read of 151 Howe Street, New Haven, Conn. After talking with a New York nurse he decided to try Matamel. Did he get results? Let Mr. Read tell you himself:

"I have been suffering with chronic kidney and bladder inflammation for 20 years. It has cost me a fortune for doctors and medicines without results. I had to give up work 10 years ago. I read about Matamel and thought I would try it. To my great surprise Matamel seemed to act wonders with me. After taking Matamel I feel 100% better. I sleep fine, eat and can take my daily exercise. In fact, I feel twenty years younger".

In commenting on the above, a doctor stated: "Matamel Cleanser Matamel is not a patent medicine but just the concentrated sap of the Maguey. I have personally used it in my practice with remarkable success in many cases of kidney and bladder disorders. It is a diuretic and antiseptic and has a tonic effect on the entire system."

Matamel is now being used by men and women in all walks of life who receive benefit from Matamel". If you have headaches—pains in back—tired feeling in the morning, lack of energy, dancing spots before the eyes, strange noises in ears or head, dizzy spells, poor appetite—coated tongue—dry, itchy skin—pins and needle cramps—loss of weight—restless sleep—frequent going to bath room—don't wait until there is no chance left to help your kidneys; at once get a package of Matamel, which already has over 50,000 users. It is guaranteed to [illegible]

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

THE four players most frequently ranked as the greatest in modern baseball history have been lost to the west in the winter turnover of team personnel.

Cobb, Hornsby, Speaker and Collins often have been rated as the best talent in baseball, whenever sustained versatility, brilliance and diamond color are considered.

Cobb, by signing with the Athletics, will play on an eastern team for the first time. Speaker and Collins are not new to the east. Collins returns to the Athletics, the club to which he bounded from Columbia University in 1906. Speaker will be a new name on the Washington payroll, but he was an eastern player from 1909 to 1915, playing with the Boston Red Sox.

WILLIE HOPPE and Jake Schaefer have posted forfeits, thus binding their 3,000-point match at 18-1 balkline, which will open in New York next Tuesday afternoon. Schaefer posted $1,000, while Promoter Kline posted $500 of the $1,000 which was put up for Hoppe. Hoppe posted the other $500. No title will be at stake and the cue stars will play for the purse and the gate receipts.

THE tendency to kick a man when he is down seems to be an international failing. While the American sport public is trying to recover from the recent disclosures in the baseball world and Vincent Richards threatens to tear the veil of professionalism from the fair features of amateur tennis, along come the soccer organizations of central Europe and ask to have the United States expelled from the international soccer federation.

This is too much. The straw has fallen which will crush the camel's vertebrae.

ANOTHER of Tex Rickard's preliminary elimination contests went off according to schedule when the Georgia Stribling boy won an uninteresting bout from Huffman of Los Angeles, who gave up a chance to see the channel swimmers to come east for the fight. No one, not excepting Mr. Rickard, felt that the result of this fight would materially affect the choice of an opponent for Tunney.

This was the first appearance of Stribling in New York since Paul Berlenbach mishandled him to a clear cut win. It was also the first official trip of the young Georgian to the big town without the comforting presence of his parents. That is pretty much of a load for a young fellow of the filial development of Stribling. His parents having recently given over his pugilistic hopes to the keeping of a stranger, should not have sent him into New York to experience his first thrill of loneliness.

Neither of the contestants were more than a few pounds over the light heavyweight limit. Huffman was awkward. Stribling was cautious. Stribling waited for Huffman to try to get going, which apparently requires a high degree of patience. The result was an unsatisfactory, slow fight, which evoked considerable discordant comment from the cash customers.

Tex probably is well satisfied to have that particular elimination eliminated.

"Hornsby's stock is no worry of mine," he said, "It's up to Hornsby to get rid of it. I am willing to give him a fair price, but I'm not going to seek him out or take the initiative."

Harding High Meets Ashland Five Here Tonight

Marionites to Face Tough Opposition in Last Home Game of 1926-27 Season

Ashland Carries Two Highest North Central Ohio League Scorers on Squad; Local Cagers After Another Victory Following Win Over Galion Last Week

HARDING HIGH'S basketball team plays its last home game tonight. For opposition, it will have the great Ashland High quintet, considered one of the best in this section of Ohio.

Ashland will invade the Star auditorium equipped with Miller and Riley, the two highest scorers in the North Central Ohio League. In addition to these two men it will come prepared to meet any kind of an offense with two staunch guards that have shown their ability in previous N. C. O. league games this season.

Ashland is the last visiting high school team to play Harding in the Star auditorium this season, according to the present schedule. It is also the best. The Marionites have met only one other team this season that may possibly be considered of greater strength than Ashland. That outfit was the Mansfield crew, which now leads the N. C. O. league as the result of a victory over Ashland at Mansfield last week.

Gloomy Forecast

Mansfield beat Harding High 34 to 20 and used a few second stringers while performing the feat. Then last week the Richland County lads turned the tables on Ashland in an overtime game, winning 31 to 29. The comparison of scores makes the locals' future look rather gloomy. In fact, the clouds have been gathering all week merely from the thought of meeting the visitors here.

But Harding High is game. The Marion basketeers fight to the finish, winning or losing. Ashland may whip the boys but when they get through they'll know that they've been handling the whip.

Optimistic

Still, the writer is optimistic. Harding High has shown signs of flashy basketball on many occasions this season, the team was green for a few games but its "seeing red" now. There's no chance of winning anything that looks like the N. C. O. league pennant but that's no reason why the Marion lads cannot win the remainder of their games this season.

The boys suffered from stage fright in the first N. C. O. league battle at Mansfield. They came back in the final half and actually threatened to win the game after being led by at least 18 points at the end of the half. That was enough. Marion fans knew then that they were supporting a fighting aggregation.

It is surprising, however, the number of persons that say, when asked concerning the outcome of the game tonight, "Oh, Harding will get licked, as usual." Listen closely when asking the same question and invariably, unless you're talking to a high school student, you will hear the "as usual." Many of Marion's greatest basketball fans will use that phrase in telling how Harding will probably come out of a fracas. They can't forget that the locals have been whipped a few times and they can't remember that Marion defeated Lima Central in the first high school game of the season and then last week knocked off Galion 29 to 4.

Tonight the Marionites are going up against a team that is considered completely out of their class in basketball playing this year. But you don't hear them crying or boo-hooing about it. They'll take the floor at 8:15 and when they leave it they'll still have fighting spirit, whether they win or lose. Coach Compton holds out hopes of sending the visitors home on the short end of the score.

Joe Rinnert may be back into the skirmish tonight. That will help things considerably. Gillis will probably start at center but Gilmore also has a chance at that place. McAninch and Garrett will likely start as forwards although Chuck Evans has been going hot. Then comes Bud Cram and Hughie Shults at guards, with a possibility of Born getting into the mix-up.

It will be a tough battle and it will be Marion fans' last chance to see this year's basketball squad in action on the home floor. One of the greatest crowds of all time is expected to pack the auditorium.

JIM THORPE RETURNS; INDIANS BEAT MARINERS

After being out of the game for a week because of injuries, Jim Thorpe last night returned to the lineup of the World Famous Indian basketball quintet of LaRue and assisted in giving the Mariners of Detroit a nice trimming, 70 to 29. It was the Mariners' first defeat of the season.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Chicago—Spug Meyers of Pocatello, Idaho, won decision over Mushy Callahan of Los Angeles, ten rounds. Mike Sullivan of Sioux Falls, S. D., scored technical knockout over Len Melody of Portland, Ore., sixth round.

SHOVELS DEFEAT DAIRYMEN, 33-27

COBB AND HIS NEW MANAGER

Here we see Ty Cobb, the "Georgia Peach," left, and his new manager, Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics. Cobb will get the largest salary ever paid a ball player, it was said following his announcement he would play the season with the Athletics.

FIRST CONTEST IN BASKETBALL SERIES PLAYED

Shovelers Stage Comeback in Second Half and Trounce Dairies

Staging a comeback early in the second half and spurting ahead in the final minutes, the Marion Steam Shovel independent basketball team last night won the first contest in the five-game series being held between Isaly Dairies and the Shovels. The final score was 33 to 27. The battle was waged in the Star Auditorium.

The Dairies got off on the right foot and forged ahead for an early lead, before the Shovel crew began pulling together. Quickly recovering, however, the Shovelers closed the gap but could not quite hold their own. The half ended 17 to 13 with Isalies on top.

The Dairies started their regular lineup with Tschanen and Penry, forwards; Minard, center, and Applegett and Miller, guards. The Steam Shovels also began the series with their regulars using Bacon and Compton at guards; Schwab, center, and Bohyer and Wilson, forwards. Late in the first half, Roll of the Kinnears replaced Bohyer at forward for the Shovels. Bohyer had three personal fouls on him when taken from the game. No change was made in the Dairy lineup during the initial half.

Neck and Neck

Roll and Wilson set the ball rolling early in the second half within five minutes the score was tied at the 19-point mark. From then on, it was neck and neck. First a Shovel man dropped in a field goal or free throw and then an Isaly player performed a similar feat. In the final three minutes, the Shovels spurted ahead, scoring the necessary six points to take the game.

OVER 900 FANS SEE GREAT GAME

Nine hundred and one basketball fans packed the Star auditorium last night to see the first game of the Steam Shovel-Isaly series. Financial managers of the series last night announced that number of tickets taken at the door. A few other reserved seats were not called for before the game. It was probably the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in this city.

Marion Lads Win Places on Ohio Wesleyan Teams

Three Marion boys have won places on Ohio Wesleyan's indoor track and wrestling teams.

Arthur Messenger, 221 Kennmore-av, has won a position on the track squad while Alson Morrison, 285 Duluth-av, and Jack Houghton, 501 Girard-av, are on the wrestling team.

Messenger, a senior, copped second place in the two-mile run in the recent meet with Ohio State here. It took a runner of the caliber of Capt. Kennedy of State to beat him, however. Kennedy finished before Messenger and broke the gym record for the event by eight seconds and his own time here last year by 10 seconds.

Morrison is in the 125-pound or special class on the grappling team. Houghton is a light heavyweight, weighing 175 pounds. Both are sophomores.

MIDGETS MAY JOURNEY TO TOLEDO SATURDAY

The Midgets are planning on a trip to Toledo, Saturday night. They expect to play a team in that city. Tonight the Midgets will battle the Marion Central Juniors in the Y. M. C. A. gym.

HEAT AND BILLIARD BALLS

Heat is a great destroyer of the accuracy of billiard balls and in tropical countries it is a very rare occurrence to find a set of billiard balls that are true.

TO PLAY MANSFIELD

Marion Volleyballers Will Meet Invaders Here Tonight

Two volleyball teams from the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. will appear in the local Y. M. C. A. gym in opposition to the Marion volleyballers, at 8 o'clock, tonight.

The Marion crew has been practicing regularly and are ready for the invaders.

Bids Out to 600 Schools for Fourth Annual Ohio Relays Billed for April

Annual Track and Field Events To Be Held April 23 in Ohio Stadium, Columbus; Meet Is Sponsored by Ohio State University; Leading Eastern Teams To Compete

Columbus, O., Feb. 11—Invitations have been mailed to more than 600 high school and college track teams in the Eastern half of the United States to participate here April 23 in the fourth annual Ohio Relays. The meet, sponsored by Ohio State University, will be held as heretofore in the Ohio Stadium.

Established three years ago, the meet has drawn annually more than 100 competing teams. It is expected that the 1927 meet will attract a record breaking number of individual and team entries.

"In 1926, American track and field athletics received a decided stimulus from the invasion of many notable foreign athletes as well as the development of many new performers in this country," George M. Trautman, assistant Ohio State athletic director, who is general manager of the meet, said today. "The growing interest in this sport is confidently expected to find concrete expression in the response to this year's invitation to visit Columbus for this occasion."

Eight Classes

Competition for the meet will be divided into eight classes and will include team as well as individual events. The divisions and the events scheduled for them follow:

I. Universities and colleges open—pole vault; hop, step and jump; high jump; 100-yard dash; 120-yard high hurdles; 220-yard low hurdles; running broad jump; triathlon—an individual all-around weight event; and one mile team race replacing the customary four-mile relay.

II. Universities—two mile, one mile, half mile and distance medley relays.

III. Colleges—two mile, mile, half mile, sprint, and distance medley relays.

IV. Ohio colleges—100-yard dash; sprint and medley relay.

V. Class B colleges and normal schools—100-yard dash; mile relay.

VI. High schools—100-yard dash; pole vault; shot put; high jump; 120-yard low hurdles; sprint relay; and mile relays for Class "A" and Class "B" teams.

VII. Junior high schools—half mile relay.

VIII. Elementary schools—quarter mile relay.

Special Trophies

All of the relays and team races will be for special trophies established by Columbus luncheon clubs, newspapers and other public spirited agencies. Individual prizes will include 50 gold watches and several hundred medals.

All high school field events will be contended on the morning of the meet, and all other field events except the javelin throw, pole vault and running broad jump. The meet will be held April 23 regardless of weather conditions.

Entries for the meet close Saturday, April 16. Entry blanks will be mailed to competing schools on or before March 15.

Horse Formerly Owned by Local Man is Honor Guest

The pacer, Harry Volo, 2:10¼, formerly owned by Dr. J. G. MacNamara of this city, was the guest of honor at the meeting of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit Wednesday in the Hollenden Hotel, Cleveland. He now owns the honor of having been the only equine guest in the history of the Hollenden.

Volo was placed in an improvised stall in the banquet hall during the meeting. He is a beautiful horse and attracted much attention, receiving praise from all horsemen.

Volo, now 10 years old, was born in Marion and was for nine years the property of Dr. McNamara. Last year, the physician sold the horse to Charles Circo of North Randall.

Two hundred and eighty trotting and pacing devotes, including numerous women, attended the horsemen's banquet at the Hollenden. City Manager W. R. Hopkins of Cleveland was one of the main speakers.

Marion has not yet announced whether it will join the Ohio Short Ship circuit for the coming season.

Busy Season Seen In Y. M. C. A. Athletic Circles

Annual Free Throw Meet Will Be Held Within Next Two Weeks; Other Events

Annual Amateur Marion County Basketball Tournament Also on Schedule for Coming Month; Hexathlon Meet To Again Be Held at Y. M. C. A., F. O. Rudolph Announces

The annual basketball free throw tournament within the next two weeks will mark the opening of the busiest season of the year in Y. M. C. A. athletic circles. Following the foul shooting tourney comes the annual amateur Marion County basketball tournament and then last but not least, the hexathlon meet.

Those taking part in the foul shooting meet this year will be divided into three classes, Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors. The Seniors will have 75 throws at the bucket, the Intermediates will get 65 attempts and the Juniors will be given 45 shots. Juniors include those up to 15 years of age, Intermediates take them up to 18 and Seniors are 18 or over.

The tournament is open to all members of amateur basketball teams who wish to take part. It is not necessary to be a member of the Y. M. C. A. F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A. is in charge.

Individual Scores Held

The individual scores in each class here are sent to the free throw committee in Charleston, S. C., March 2, 1927. The committee meets in that city at that time and will compare scores sent to them from all parts of the country and the world over. The person making the highest score is then declared world's champion. The seven highest scorers in Marion will be grouped in a team and the team's score will also be presented to the committee in Charleston.

The annual Marion County amateur basketball tourney will be held in the Y. M. C. A. about the middle of March, the dates to be arranged in order to not conflict with the dates of any other athletic event held in this section of the state at that time. F. O. Rudolph will also have charge of this event.

Many Teams Compete

Teams from all parts of the county, complete and regular high school quintets excluded, may compete. There are three classes. Class A takes in teams composed of players 18 years old or over. Class B's ages rank between 16 and 18 years, and Class C teams may be composed of players under 16 years of age. Last year 26 teams took part in the tourney.

The annual boys' hexathlon meet of the Y. M. C. A. will take place late in March, it was announced today. There are five classes in the meet with the six events varying slightly in the heavy weight division. The first three classes, taking in youths weighing under 110 pounds, will have two potato races, running high jump, standing broad jump, target throw and a bar event. The next two classes, composed of 125 pounders and over, will have the shot put and fence vault instead of the last two events mentioned in the former divisions.

Results of this meet will also be handled much in the same manner as those of the free throw tourney, the Y. M. C. A. world's championship being decided.

TO DAMPEN ARDOR?

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11—The Michigan State College swimming team will try to dampen the ardor of the Cincinnati University Pool squad here tonight. The Cincinnati U. Aquatic team meets Ohio Wesleyan here on Feb. 10 and the Indianapolis Athletic Club on Feb. 26.

TO GET $100,000?

Babe and Yanks May Come to Final Settlement Soon

New York, Feb. 11—It was the consensus today that the final settlement of the salary controversy between Babe Ruth and the New York Yankees would see the star hitter receiving at least $100,000 for his efforts during 1927, the reputed $75,000 contract given Cobb in Philadelphia having forced the Yankees on the defensive. Ruth returned an unsigned contract for $52,000, the sum he received during the last five years, but the Yankee management has explained that the document was sent him merely to protect its reservation of the player, which would have expired Feb. 15.

Real terms, it was explained, would be offered Ruth when he returns to New York late in February.

Meantime, a three-year contract for $19,000 a season was in the mails addressed to Eddie Roush, obtained by the Giants several days ago for George Kelly. This was said to be the contract Roush demanded in Cincinnati.

DISPLAYMEN WIN OVER EXPRESS BOWLING TEAM

Defeat Expressmen in Final Two Games of Match in Industrial Loop

Only one match was bowled last night in the Industrial League. Displaymen won two games from the American Expressmen. The first tilt went to the Expressmen but Displaymen came back for victories in the second and third games.

L. Messenger rolled 183 points for the Displaymen while Leighty was high for the Express with 194 pins.

Three matches will be rolled in the Industrial League tonight.

DOES THIS OUTFIT MEAN FLAG?

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

CLARK GRIFFITH has ready to present to baseball fans the "sweetest" outfield in the business.

The acquisition of Speaker gives the Senators the most versatile and formidable outer garden in the game, all angles of play considered.

Will the strength and versatility added to it by Speaker's arrival, give the entire team the punch necessary to win the pennant? The matter is worthy of discussion.

These figures alone represent an attacking power nearly equal to that of any stellar outfield.

But consider some other angles.

Goslin, home run star of the team, socked out 17 circuit clouts. But he also laid down 18 sacrifices.

Rice, too, turned in 18 sacrifices, and in addition stole 25 bases, ranking second only to Johnny Mostil of the White Sox.

Speaker, while having an off year at the bat—for him—as far as the actual averages were concerned, stole 26 bases when he did get on and crashed out 52 two-base hits, George Burns alone forging ahead of him.

Goslin and Rice, to go further, led the league in assists registered by outfielders, with 25 each. Speaker ranked second among the outfielders in fielding, with an average of .981.

The Tiger outfield of Manush, Heilmann, Fothergill, led this trio in actual hitting power, but lacked the versatility in attack and the fielding.

Babe Ruth's mighty bludgeon, of course, gave the Yankees tremendous power, but did not boost the fielding.

Speaker Adds to "Brains"

In addition to his actual playing strength, Speaker takes to Washington the same knowledge of players that helped make him a capable leader at Cleveland. And relieved of the responsibilities of manager, he can give his entire energy to playing his position. Goslin and Rice will be on their toes to match him.

Washington led the league in team batting last year. The added presence of Speaker's bat may well be expected to increase this strength—give the team a greater edge. Harris' team ranked fifth in fielding, and the wily Texan's presence should tighten this angle of the defense.

Last drastic changes than the addition of a player of Speaker's caliber have brought pennants to "almost" teams.

orced the game. He missed nothing and called everything. Isalys were indicted with 13 personal fouls while the Shovels slipped through with 12 to their credit. With only four minutes to go, Newt Minard, Dairy center, was eliminated from the fray because of four personals. Harry Schwab of the Shovels played the entire last half with the three personals hanging over his head.

Mel Shaw of the Klingers and Norb Sackrider of Dayton, were on the Shovel bench but were not used in the tussle last night.

Richards Says Davis Cup Will Remain in America; Tilden Will Help Get It

Backed Up by Bill Johnston and Dick Williams, Tilden Will Again Bring Tennis Trophy to United States, Says Richards; Tilden Expects To Turn Professional

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Feb. 11—Having thrown a few rocks at the glass houses within range, Vincent Richards varied his program today by violently hurling a bouquet of sweet peas point blank at the American Davis Cup team, which he said couldn't lose the international trophy in 1927. Inadvertently, however, one of the posies was bound to Morocco or something and it just happened that that was the one that struck William T. Tilden a light haymaker full on the profile.

Upon being revived, it was discovered that William had been charged with confiding to friends that, win, lose or draw in the Davis Cup series and national singles, he would turn professional at the end of the 1927 season. The result, Richards declared, would be a national "open" championship in New York the following season.

It is generally understood that Richards didn't love William for himself alone but this didn't stop the young man from paying his rival a tribute as the man who would write travel insurance against a Davis Cup migration to France this season.

Tilden Will Keep Cup

"With Tilden in there, the cup will stay in America," was Richards' unqualified statement. "Backed up by Bill Johnston and Dick Williams, he is perfectly capable of keeping the cup here in 1927. The French caught all of us on the down grade in the last championships but that won't happen again this year, particularly in the Davis Cup series. Tilden and Williams can beat the French doubles team every time out; that will leave America the rather formal problem of splitting even in the singles. Tilden and Johnston can almost guarantee to do at least that much.

"As for 1928, that will be the tennis association's problem, not mine. Tilden will be an out and out professional by that time. Even if he didn't tell friends about his plans in that direction, I would know without asking what he means to do.

"It is a natural evolution. Here is Tilden today, a synthetic amateur with no visible means of support outside of so called amateur tennis. He made, that, in a few months, I have made four times as much money as he has made in an entire year. Just try to keep that boy out of the money under these conditions."

Pyle Promoter

Clink Clank, the big Pyle man, who arranged that Richards was paid and paid, and paid, or so it is alleged, during the recent tour with Suzanne, Mary Browne and others, will be the promoter of the 1928 "open," Richards said. He added that every one would make money on the tourney, with the possible exception of the inevitable consumer or customer.

A man who has himself "under perfect control" sometimes doesn't need but one watt of power to accomplish it.

MARTEL LION TAMERS DEFEAT AGOSTA QUINTET

Win Tenth Game of Season, 39 to 26 on Agosta Court

The Martel Lion Tamers Wednesday night defeated the Agosta independent team on the Agosta floor, 39 to 26. It was the tenth win for the Tamers this year.

The Lion Tamers claim a record in the last three years of 42 wins and seven defeats and hope to keep up the good work the remainder of the season. They will probably be entered in the county tourney to be held in the Y. M. C. A. gym next month.

NEWSPAPER TAKES LEAD IN FURTHERING PLANES

Argentine Periodical Realizes National Benefits of Big Air Fleet

Buenos Aires, Feb. 11—In realization of the national benefits of a big air fleet, La Razon, one of the biggest and most influential newspapers in Argentine, is fostering aviation and arousing public interest in the subject.

This newspaper, in addition to conferring handsome gold medals upon Bernardo Duggan, Captain Olivere and Ernesto Campanelli, three aviators who flew from New York in a seaplane, raised by popular subscription 75,000 pesos which was presented to Campanelli by Dr. Angel Sojo, director of La Razon in behalf of his paper.

Campanelli was the mechanician upon the flight. After being congratulated by Dr. Sojo the air mechanic replied by saying that, during the entire flight he had in mind the benefits which might result to Argentina from his work.

All the medals were especially struck for the occasion, those for Duggan and Olivere being embellished with great diamonds.

Officials believe that it will not be long until the airplane is in widespread use in interior Argentine for commercial purposes.

Ex-Pirate Now Preacher of Gospel; Tells Story

William Hoffmann, ex-pirate, and the large mission he built with his own hands since turning preacher.

DANVILLE, Ill., Feb. 11—Writers of fiction probably would fight shy of a plot in which a full-fledged pirate becomes a preacher of the gospel, and yet—

It has happened in real life.

Strangely enough, as the fiction writer, in any event, would NOT have it, this ex-pirate did not become a champion of the Bible by way of specific atonement for his days of buccaneering on the high seas. His change in point of view came some years after a group of Austrian soldiers had ended the bloody history of a certain Captain Rudolph and his unscrupulous gang in the midst of a smuggling episode on the old German-Austrian border some 60 years ago.

The man to whom Fate dealt this queer hand is William Hoffmann. He dwells in a tiny white house on the outskirts of Danville. It has one fairly large and three small rooms. In the smaller rooms he lives, alone and without luxury. In the other he has installed neatly-painted benches, enough to seat 30 persons. In the center he has built a platform, with a lectern to hold his Bible when he preaches. Here, to all who come, he speaks on Sundays of the gospel of Christ.

And he was born a Russian-Jew.

Tells of Adventures

In labored English, with the accent of an Italian, but with German words frequently interspersed, he will tell you freely the story of his life—all but those years from eight to 30. Of these he does not like to talk often or even to think.

William Hoffmann is almost 80 but he is robust and vigorous, even to the point of being militant.

"I am yet young!" he says genially. And when a smile spreads over his swarthy features he bears a striking facial resemblance to old Santa Claus. This, summarized, is his story, as he tells it:

He was the only boy in a family of 22 children. For much of the mischief perpetrated by his sisters, he got the blame. On one occasion, when he was about seven, he decided to run away. He went into the great forest near his home. There he met an old man with a long white beard, familiarly known in that region as "the snake charmer." The boy admitted he had run away. The old man took him to his crude forest home, fed him and treated him well. He demonstrated "witchcraft" to the boy. It made a deep impression. He taught the small lad as much as anybody could grasp.

After two days the old man of the woods took the boy within sight of his home and bade him return.

Tries "Witchcraft"

Under the parental roof again, young Hoffmann tried his hand at witchcraft. He quickly acquired the reputation of being a bad boy.

"Oh, I was a very, very bad boy," he recalls, shaking his head soberly.

His mother died. His father remarried. He did not like his stepmother. Again he decided to run away. At this time he was a little past eight. The family lived on the German side of the mountainous borderland between Germany and Austria. Into the forest the boy went again, heading toward Austria.

He met a band of men. He told them he was running away. He, boy-like, boasted of his "badness" when encouraged to do so. The men took him into their fold. They were smugglers, a part of Captain Rudolph's band.

"I did not then know figures," says William Hoffmann. "Perhaps there were 50, 60, 70."

Bad and Bold!

"From then until I was 18, I lived the life of a buccaneer," says Hoffmann. "I was hunted at intervals by four or five nations."

On one occasion the pirates encountered a British ship returning from Africa with slaves, Hoffman relates. The crew was disposed of and the slaves landed back in Africa and freed.

"Treasure? If there was treasure buried I know not," says Hofmann. "I was young. I had what I wanted to eat, everything I needed. I did not care for my share. The men drank much. It was a wicked life."

And then, when William Hoffman was 18, as nearly as he can tell, he accompanied a large portion of the band on a smuggling venture through Austria. They were pursued by Austrian soldiers.

"I was young and what you call—agile," says Hoffmann. "Before they came I climbed into a tree, and there was a big hole in it. I hid there."

He believed the remainder of the band was killed, or captured. He never saw them again.

Sees Vision of Mother

He made his way into Germany. There, after five or six years, he went into the German army. While still in the service, he became ill. His life was despaired of. He says his mother appeared to him in a dream and urged him, a Jew, to follow the Christian teachings of Christ.

He prayed, as his mother had bade him. He grew better, but scorned at the thought of Christian baptism and worship. Again, he avers, his mother appeared to him in a vision and begged him to follow her precious instructions.

He did so. Coming to America when he was about 30, he has worked as miner, a stone mason, railroad hand and at odd jobs. He has always s

Today, in Danville, he owns several pieces of property and the little mission house where he expects to pass the of his days.

To the young women he knows, liam Hoffmann shakes his finger smiles.

"I like you," he says, "but I do like your bobbed hair."

A rubber fan has been designed sensitive deaf persons. When between the teeth it absorbs sou waves and transmits them to the bo structures.

HASN'T FELT SO GOOD IN 20 YEARS

Read Mr. Awtry's testimonial as to what ALL-BRAN does in stamping out constipation.

"I'm a man 56 years of age, have had chronic constipation for 25 years. I have been taking all kinds of purgatives, correctly—if ever—have a natural movement. Have spent a great deal of money and no permanent relief. . . . When I had used one package of your ALL-BRAN I found I could discard my pills and tablets. I haven't felt so good in 20 years."

Jos. W. Awtry, Atlanta, Ga.

You can get permanent, natural relief from constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran.

Eat ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Mix with other cereals. Served and sold everywhere. Ready to eat. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Recipes on package.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

"HARMER JOHN" is the title of the latest novel of one of England's most loved authors, Hugh Walpole, author of "Fortitude," "The Old Ladies," "Portrait of a Man with Red Hair," and "The Cathedral," as well as many other widely known books.

Much as in "Fortitude" and "Portrait of a Man with Red Hair" in "Harmer John," Mr. Walpole chooses a compelling central character, and winds a delightful story about him. Mr. Walpole's books are somewhat inclined to be "unworldly" in the sense of unusual, the term "unworldly" having been used in the title of the story itself, "Harmer John," an unworldly story. However, his characters are realistic and of so powerful and appealing a personality, however individual they may be, to remain indelibly implanted in the mind of a lover of good literature. To open a Walpole book is to experience a pleasing memory of Walpole characters, the powerful, lovable boy of "Fortitude," (much similar at heart to Harmer John), the interesting, pathetic little old ladies of the book, "The Old Ladies," or perhaps an uncanny remembrance of "The Man with Red Hair."

• • •

"HJALMAR JOHANSON" or "Harmer John" as he later comes to be known in the controlling interest in Walpole's newest book. A simple-minded, honest, trusting Swedish youth masquerading in the frame of a slightly older man, tall, well-built, powerful, this simplicity and confidence in man and his strength and physical talent a wholesome and not unpleasing combination. In the year 1906 this promising character enters the small English town of Polchester, wins his way into the hearts of a widow, her two unmarried daughters, and an old maid and takes up his lodging with them.

He had always lived by his strength, and, having completed a course fitting him to teach gymnastics, he had returned to the original home of his English mother, there to make his home. Although he has known hardships and difficulties of all kinds, he seems yet untouched by life and is inclined to be optimistic, God-fearing, clean in heart and mind.

He opens a gymnasium and through his buoyant, innocent spirits and irresistable personality is soon respected and admired by the entire village. Meanwhile his love of the widow's daughter, a beautiful young girl, be impetuous, jealous, selfish and vain, as she is beautiful, innocent, sincere and irresistible. For a time love of her handsome successful lover transforms her into a meek, adoring altogether winsome little creature. Although Harmer John realizes his sweetheart's adverse qualities and in his simplicity believes that love will modify her selfish nature and that after all "she is young".

His happiness almost reaches a zenith when he finds a truly devoted friend in Longstaffe, rector in the little town. His friendship for Longstaffe, his love for Maude, the widow's daughter and the joy he finds in his work become the controlling factors of his life.

HARMER JOHN is somewhat of a dreamer, and, encouraged with his success and popularity, he determines to fulfill a lifelong ambition to perfect a town, make of it a beautiful, Godlike, clean place such as is to be found nowhere on earth. "Seatown", the lower section of the little village, is his greatest worry for Seatown is a rundown, foul-smelling seacoast section which breeds disease, roughness and trouble.

At the height of his success and at the suggestion of one of the town's foremost citizens, he increases his personal popularity by delivering a lecture upon physical culture in which he discusses the care of the body. Although his success brings him a prominence and standing to be envied he grows unhappy and is, in his simple way, ashamed to have forgotten his ambition, his hope to improve the town, in forwarding his personal ends. At a second lecture he loses his following by telling his hearers plainly what a beautiful town they might have and wherein they have failed. From then on his unpopularity is as great as his recent success had been.

Meanwhile, upon the return of Mary, Longstaff's daughter, who, through no particular fault of her own, has been disgraced in her youth. Harmer John makes her almost as much his friend as is her father . . . . thus causing the vanity in Maude with the aid of her dissatisfaction at the life he has chosen to grow into an overpowering jealousy and finally demand a separation.

Having known both love and hate, success and failure, and, in his simple way, understanding only the beauty, the goodness of life, Harmer John is rescued from the depths of despondency by his ever-faithful friend.

• • •

THERE could be but one end to such a book . . . Harmer John, while performing what little acts of kindness he could for postown unfortunates, becomes the victim of a mob and is put to death, a happy death, since he died fighting the hated sin and ugliness of the world.

Walpole evidently feared a too-unhappy ending and added another chapter one in which the old maid (and by the way a most delightful, absorbing character) returns to her former home in Polchester on the day when the towns people unveil a tablet to the misunderstood and heroic Harmer John.

A comforting chapter, is that last one, and an ironical one. Is it always after death that one's services are to be recognized? Why add the chapter at all? Does it not show we blinded, selfish human beings in our true light? And yet, are we not glad to know that in books, at least, worthiness and service will be finally rewarded? Such are the questions that arise in one's mind upon the reading of that last chapter in the afterthought of a truly fine book.

BEST-SELLING fiction for last week were "Delectable Mountains" by Struthers Burt, "Young Anarchy" by Philip Gibbs, "The Plutocrat" by Booth Tarkington, "Tomorrow Morning" by Anne Parish, "Galahad" by John Erskine and "Go She Must" by David Garnett, while the best-selling non-fiction books were "War Birds, the Diary of an Unknown Aviator," "Napoleon" by Emil Ludwig, and "The Story of Philosophy" by Will Durant.

• • •

Of Zona Gale's "Preface to a Life," Dorothy Canfield Fisher, author of "Her Son's Wife," says "When I finished reading ZoZna Gale's 'Preface to a Life,' I had the authentic hush of awe one feels on stepping into a cathedral. It had been a religious experience to read it . . . a kind of experience that will certainly mean vastly more to most of its American readers than the conventional sort of religious experience."

• • •

Percy Mark's "Lord of Himself" is in its fifteenth thousand a week after publication. Critics hail it as a greater novel than the best-selling and entirely modern, "Plastic Age" by the same author.

• • •

"The Dark Fire," a novel of the south sea by Elinor Mordaunt, "The Stranger from Cheyenne," a novel of the Wyoming range country by Joseph Bushell Ames, "Gervaise of the Garden" a modern story for children by Edith Ballinger Price, and "The Castle of the Hawk" a historical romance for children by Katherine Dunlap Cather, are the titles of four promising books to be published by the Century Co. Feb. 15.

• • •

Nothing is more deliciously absurd than the unconscious criticisms of a child who is copying what it conceives to be the best manners of the adults whom it loves and admires. Something of this quality of humor has made a novel by Peggy Temple (aged 12) so popular that four large editions have already been sold in England. The central figure of "The Admiral and Others" is so delightful, and the story is packed with exciting detail so quaintly true that it deserves the prominent place it will have among the Dutton books announced for publication on February 23.

• • •

Among the interesting new books are "Hula," a love story of Hawaii by Armine Von Tempski, "The Painted Room" by Margaret Wilson, "Echo Answers" by Elwyth Wayne, "Dew and Mildew" by Percival Christopher Wren, "Doomsday" by Warwick Deeping, "Jill" by E. M. Dalafield, "Wind of Complication" by Susan Erla, and "The Up-Grade" by George Gibbs.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother? If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting, waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleaning" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

If Youth But Knew

BY WAYNE B. WHEELER

General Counsel, The Anti-Saloon League of America

IF Youth But Knew that the fatted lamb tastes better than the discarded husks in the wine trough, there would be fewer prodigal sons and daughters.

The curse of civilization is the vogue of the secondhand and the second rate. To "get by", to be one of a crowd, satisfies too many. The "Divine discontent with earth" does not stir youth deeply.

There are too many in the bleachers and not enough on the field. We hire athletes to play our games, pay movie actors fortunes to have our adventures, permit propagandists to provide ready-made opinions and crooked politicians to govern many of our cities. Our very sins are antiquated, copied from the fools and failures of the ages.

Youth's primal need is knowledge of the value of a sound body. The physical machine is worth at least as much care as a $10,000 motor-car but rarely gets as much attention as a five-year-old Ford. Folk who would not pour dirty water into their batteries or dump emery dust into the transmission will put narcotics and alcohol into the fine machine of the body and wonder why it functions poorly.

Value of Sound Mind

No youth would cut off a finger for fun but the hip-pocket flask with dangerous booze made from industrial alcohol cuts years off life, usefulness and enjoyment from the unthinking. The body is "the Temple of the Holy Ghost", in Scriptural phrase; the creative force of life dwells there until crowded out by folly.

Youth's second need is to know the value of a sound mind. To be able to do one's own thinking is a priceless gift, bartered away for a mess of pottage by the hosts who believe every line of the printed page and who are led by prejudice rather than by thought.

The exploiters of human weakness, the men who make their wealth by catering to debased appetites, rely on the thoughtlessness of the majority. When people are led to think on any abuse in life they tear it up by the roots. It takes years to make people think of the wrong of duelling, of the lottery, of slavery, of the beverage liquor traffic, of corruption in political life. But when men and women think on these evils, they remove them.

Choose Great Cause

Youth's third need is to know how to get the largest returns from its sound body and sound mind. We have discovered that Service is a law in economics as well as in religion. The man who does most for society does most for himself.

To choose some great cause and love and serve it; to hitch one's wagon to a star, brings larger rewards than selfishness.

Men call their sons Paul but name their dogs Nero because poverty could not hide the splendor of Paul's life nor could a crown conceal Nero's baseness.

Youth needs Sir Philip Sidney's advice: "When you hear of a good war, go to it." It sounds slangy but it is good English and better advice. There is more fun, more enduring joy and greater content with life if you are fighting for honesty, decency and truth than if you line up with the exploiters of vice, crime and appetite. It is the choice between being a Peter or a Judas, between being a Washington or a Benedict Arnold.

Youth with a strong healthy body and a clear active mind, enthusiastically adventuring for an ideal, could make this world leap centuries in a decade, If Youth But Knew.

PEARL STREET CLUB TO MEET NIGHT OF FEB. 10

Hour Changed to 8 P. M. To Enable Fathers of Students To Attend

A specially-arranged community meeting will be held at the Pearl Street school building Friday, Feb. 10, at 8:00 p. m. in charge of Mrs. F. D. Annes, president of the Pearl Street Community Club.

The time of the meeting was changed from immediately after school to 8:00 p. m. to enable students' fathers as well as mothers to attend. The principal speaker will be Martin Verberg, secretary of the T. M. C. A., who will talk on "The Child, His Nature and His Needs."

LINCOLN PROGRAM IS PRESENTED AT SCHOOL

R. A. Garvin, principal of Vernon Heights Junior High School was the speaker this morning at the Lincoln birthday chapel exercises at Central Junior High School.

A music program was arranged for the chapel services today, with the orchestra, girls' glee club and boys' glee club taking part.

Mary Williams read "The Perfect Tribute" an appropriate selection for services commemorating the birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

Corporation finance, one of the subjects to be given in the extension classes of Ohio State University which will open here next week, will be taught by Prof. J. Wesley Sternberg. The corporation finance class will hold its first meeting Thursday night, Feb. 17, at 7:30 at Harding High School.

Professor Sternberg is a member of the faculty of the College of Commerce and Administration of Ohio State University. The corporation finance course will cover all financial problems of corporations, partnership, and individual ownership.

FAMOUS PICTURE CHOSEN BY PEARL STREET GRADE

Painting Given by South Side Community Club for Largest Ticket Sale

The fourth grade at Pearl Street School, taught by Miss Marion Soutter, chose the famous picture "Bayard" by Patton, as its reward from the South Side Community Club. The picture was purchased with $10 given by the South Side Community Club for selling the largest number of tickets of any of the grades in the Pearl Street School for the benefit show, "Sweet Rosy O'Grady." The show was presented a short time before Christmas at the Oakland Theatre, and was sponsored by the South Side Community Club.

The picture "Bayard" is regarded as a fine work of art. It was purchased in Boston, Mass. The frame will be paid for, partly with money obtained by means of a candy sale which is to be given by the seventh grade girls in Miss Mae Hane's room at Pearl Street and the remainder by the community club.

The picture will go from grade to grade with the boys and girls who won it.

HARDING HIGH SCHOOL CONDUCTS SALES COURSE

Salesmanship classes of Harding High School taught by Paul Sprout and A. E. Compton are now taking subscriptions for magazines. The classes of the different teachers are having a contest to see which class can sell the most subscriptions. A chart on the bulletin board shows the average of the rooms by a broncho race.

This idea has been carried out in preceding years to give experience to the student in salesmanship. Part of the money from the subscriptions is given to the school to buy salesmanship literature for the High School library.

Silver Street School Plans To Add Books to Collection

A library consisting of approximately 155 books was opened to the students of Silver Street School this week. They plan to add to this collection until they have around 250 books. This library was made possible by a donation of $75 from the Child Conservative League, and will not cost the board of education anything.

PRESS CLUB AT HARDING HIGH HOLDS MEETING

All Members of Journalism Class Eligible to Membership in Organization

The first meeting of the Press Club of Harding High School, was held Wednesday in Room No. 11.

The meeting was opened by Oscar Hittenrauch, president. Edward Sloan, secretary, called the roll. Murray Powers, managing editor of The Marion Star was the principal speaker. His subject was "Making Up a Newspaper." Mr. Powers used illustrations to explain his subject.

The Press club was organized several years ago when the subject of journalism first started in Harding High School and has continued until the present time. All the members of the journalism classes are eligible to belong. The officers this year are: Oscar Hittenrauch, president; Helen Carhart, vice president; Edward Sloan, secretary, and Ralph Hinklin, treasurer.

PUPILS' READING CIRCLE FORMED AT GREENWOOD

Books Required in Course Are Chosen by Board in Columbus

The Ohio pupils' reading circle course has lately been established in Glenwood School.

The books required in this course are chosen by a board at Columbus, which selects books, suitable for each grade. Each pupil is required to read three books a year. For the first four years a certificate is received for the required amount of reading, a diploma for the fourth year, and for each of the following years a goldseal is received.

The purpose of this reading circle is to present the best books to children. Many of the other city schools have adopted this course also. The Parent-Teacher Association sponsored this movement.

At Glenwood two librarians are appointed, who serve for two weeks, after which two more are appointed. The books are distributed twice a week, on Wednesdays and Fridays.

SIXTH GRADE TEACHER RESUMES WORK HERE

Miss Bernice Kerr, sixth grade teacher at Glenwood, has returned to her teaching after a leave of absence for the first semester. During this time she was completing her Normal School Course at Athens.

Mary Lewis to Sing on WEAF Bill Sunday

DAWES TO SPEAK SATURDAY NIGHT

Mary Lewis, a runaway orphan girl of Little Rock, Ark., who once appeared as a musical comedy actress and was a noted "Follies" girl and who scored an instant triumph on her first appearance as a singer with the Metropolitan Opera Co., will be the soloist to be heard in the regular Sunday night concert of WEAF, New York, and stations of the red and blue networks. The program will start promptly at 9:15 o'clock, Sunday night.

The Ohio State-Purdue basketball game will be broadcast from WEAO, Columbus, at 8 o'clock, Saturday night. A. Lee Henderson will do the announcing. Purdue defeated Ohio State on one occasion this year.

Dawes To Talk

Vice President Dawes will speak from WRC, Washington, at 8:15, Saturday night, addressing those in attendance at the Big Boy Scout celebration planned for that city.

WEAF, New York, at 9 o'clock Saturday night, offers the famous New York Symphony Orchestra in a concert through that station and other stations of the red network, including WTAM, Cleveland, WSAI, Cincinnati, and WWJ, Detroit. The Boston Symphony will be heard from WBZ, Springfield, Mass., at 8:10, Saturday night.

The Lincoln-Douglas debate will again be enacted over the air through station WGN, Chicago, at 10 o'clock, Saturday night.

The Detroit Symphony orchestra and Chicago Philharmonic will be heard Sunday afternoon through WWJ, Detroit, and WGN, Chicago, respectively. The Detroit program is booked for 3:30 and the Chicago entertainment is billed for a half hour later.

NORMA TALMADGE

THAT the vogue for classic drama in modern dress which struck the stage last season, has penetrated to the motion picture, is seen in the forthcoming production of "Camille," starring Norma Talmadge, which First National will release in April.

In this film version of the famous Dumas drama, Miss Talmadge wears modern clothes and adopts modern manners in place of the classic costume and manners usually demanded by the piece. It is the contention of both Joseph M. Schenck, producer of "Camille," and Miss Talmadge however, that the universality of the celebrated drama is better brought out by a production that reflects the modern temper.

When "Hamlet" was given a stage presentation in New York with the melancholy Dane sporting the most up-to-date apparel, many critics and playgoers were forced almost in spite of themselves to admit that the unusual treatment gave the play a vitality that it never had before. Even the century-old lines seemed to take on a new force, sounding remarkably modern for all their antiquity.

Miss Talmadge expects her version of "Camille" to respond in the same way to the modern treatment. Camille will be a 1927 young lady. But her emotions, reactions and reflections will be exactly like those of the classic Camille, because Camille provided with a new set of conventions to take the place of an old set, will still be essentially the immortal Camille.

Famous Players has patched up its differences with Wallace Beery by giving him a six weeks' vacation since he contended he was in need of rest. In April he will start production on "Firemen, Save My Child."

Rex, the wild horse, has been sold to Universal. This is probably the only instance in which an animal star has changed owners.

WOMAN LEGISLATOR HONORED

Iowa Farmers Seek Buried Remains of Whiskey Ship

MISSOURI VALLEY, IA. — Something of the interest and enthusiasm that must have embued adventuresome people along the Atlantic coast years ago when excursions were made for treasure believed to have been buried by pirates, has filled people of this community following reports that a river boat, laden with whiskey, sank near here years ago.

The bed of the Missouri River once was near this town, and the story goes that a steamboat, carrying a heavy cargo of choice whiskies, brandies and wines floundered and went down during a storm. The river now flows ten miles west of here, and the old bed of the Big Muddy is now a cornfield.

But somewhere under the corn is said to lie the bulk of this old boat with what would now be a cargo as precious as gold. The exact location of the boat is not known, but farmers are reported to be keeping a close eye on their property in the hope of someday upturning a part of it that would give a clew to its buried treasure.

Such stories, however, are not new along the river. Ever since prohibition became a law tales of buried river ships with their holds filled with the forbidden liquid have flourished, based for the most part on legends handed down by the old timers.

WANT TO MAKE MORE MONEY? HERE'S CHANCE

To those who are compelled to lay off at frequent intervals because of ill health, Pepgen, which is Nature's greatest system tonic offers a chance to make more money.

Mrs. Mamie Eads, 107 W. Ash St., Norman, Ill., writes "My husband had stomach trouble for twelve years. Sometimes he had attacks of acute indigestion that almost killed him. Gas formed and his stomach bloated like a balloon. His head and back ached. He slept but little and was far below his right weight.

"Since taking Pepgen his stomach does not bother him; his bowels are regular and he sleeps like a tired boy. He is seldom troubled with a headache or backache. He looks like a different man."

If you don't feel well try Pepgen. It has helped others and you may confidently expect it to do the same for you. Sold by Bradley's Drug Store, Marion, Ohio, and other well stocked drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Here He Is!

You'll want this man at your public sale. He is one of Ohio's alert farmers and wants to buy what you have to sell. The quickest and most convenient way to reach him is through the Want Ad Public Sale columns of the Marion Star for that is the paper he reads. A little ad placed there is read by over 14,000 readers a night. Surely from that vast reader audience you will get a crowd at that public sale. It's inexpensive too.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Oranges are getting cheaper and the range of size and quality of oranges is greater on local markets now. High grade oranges, California navels, are selling as high as 60 cents dozen. Florida oranges are selling for from 40 to 65 cents a dozen, and the lower grades of oranges are selling down as low as 25 cents a dozen.

Other shipper fruits are generally higher in grade and slightly lower in price than earlier in the winter. Grapefruit are selling two for 25 cents for the highest grade, and tangerines are selling for 35 cents a dozen. Lemons are also 35 cents a dozen.

The early demand for the shipped strawberries has kept up and the week end generally finds small quantities of the fruit selling steady. The price has been 20 cents a dozen since shortly after the first berries arrived. More strawberries will be shipped the latter part of this month and early in March and the price will gradually go down to a level where the demand for strawberries will be strong.

RAILROAD INDUSTRIAL STOCKS SHOW STRENGTH

Speculative Group Pushed Into Background as Better Grade Issues Gain

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York, Feb. 11—The better grade of railroad and industrial stock exhibited a strong tone in the stock market today as the speculative rails were pushed farther into the background. Stocks of the copper companies recovered with the upturn in the price of copper metal, and motor stocks were quick to respond to President Alfred Sloan's cheery survey of the automobile sales markets.

Forecasting a continued demand for commercial money as the reason for the reserve bank's unwillingness to reduce its rediscount rate to 3½ from 4 per cent, Wall Street felt more positive than for a considerable period about the expansion of business in many important lines this year. Heads of big business organizations have never taken kindly to the suggestion of a shrinkage in American business, and the huge increase in General Motors' January output of cars and trucks is taken as an evidence of the broadening of its market.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Education of the Claridon Township Rural School District, Marion County, Ohio, at the office of the clerk, E. A. Miller, Route 2, Caledonia, O., until 12 o'clock, noon, Central Standard Time, March 14, 1927, for the furnishing of all materials and performing all the labor required in connection with the construction and completion of improvements and additions to present high and grade school building, and furnishing and installing certain equipment in said building, in Claridon Township, Marion County, Ohio, according to plans and specifications prepared by John Quincy Adams, Architect, 247 East Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio, and on file at the office of the clerk of the Board of Education of the school building and the Architect and open to public inspection during all reasonable office hours until the time herein fixed for the closing of bids.

Each proposal shall contain the full name of every person, firm, or corporation interested in the same (this is mandatory under the law), and the address of the person, firm or the president and secretary of the corporation bidding and shall be accompanied by a bond with surety or guaranty satisfactory to the board, which surety or guaranty shall be either persons residents of Marion County, Ohio, or a resident or non-resident surety company authorized to do business in Ohio, or by certified check on a solvent bank of the State of Ohio. The amount of said bond or check shall be equal to at least 10 per cent of the amount of bid and the bond shall be given in favor of the Board of Education of the Claridon Township Rural School District, Marion County, Ohio, or the certified check shall be drawn payable to said Board. The bond or check shall be forfeited if the said bidder fails to enter a contract with the said Board and furnish the required bond within 10 days after the receipt of the award by mail or telegram. Bonds or checks of the successful bidder will be returned on demand, but the bond or check of the successful bidder will be retained until the contract is signed and the required bond furnished. A bond of 50 per cent of the contract price will be required for the faithful performance of said contract.

Bids will be made out on uniform bidding forms which will be furnished by the clerk of the Board of Education or by the Architect.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids or any part thereof, and to waive any informality in any bid received if deemed to be for the best interests of the Claridon Township Rural School District, Marion County, Ohio.

By order of the Board of Education of the Claridon Township Rural School District, Marion County, Ohio.

E. A. MILLER, Clerk.

ARTIST PICKS THIS YOUTH AS TYPICAL AMERICAN MODEL

NEWLY PAINTED CAR OPERATING ON CITY TRACKS

Supervisor Mackan Plans To Give All Cars Thorough Overhauling

A bright yellow new-appearing city street car was seen on the Center-st tracks yesterday afternoon. Many are yet wondering whether or not the car is newly purchased or only repainted.

It was car 203, overhauled and repainted. The car has been in the shops for some time and has come out practically new. As it took the tracks, car 201 was sent to the barns to receive the same treatment. It will again be on the run, attracting attention, within a few weeks.

It is planned to give every city car an overhauling and repainting before spring, Supervisor C. E. Mackan announced today. All the cars are badly in need of the work, but cannot be handled at the same time. When 201 is released from the barns again, another car now in operation will be taken in and given the once-over. In this manner, Mr. Mackan hopes to have the work completed within a comparatively short time and Marion residents will again be riding in cars that have an attractive appearance as well as comfortable seats.

The interurban lines of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co., are following the same policy. Already one of the drab black cars has been overhauled and repainted a deep yellow. It makes the run between Columbus and Marion three times a day. The work in that department is carried on in the Stratford barns, two miles south of Delaware.

First Excursion

The first excursion train of the winter to operate through Marion leaves this city at 11:45 tonight over the Big Four Route, going to Niagara Falls. The excursion is operated from Dayton to Niagara Falls.

At present, indications are that a number of Marion persons will step aboard the special train tonight. A number of tickets have been sold and many inquiries have been received in the local ticket office.

The special train will arrive in Niagara Falls at 8 o'clock, Saturday morning, and patrons of the excursion will have until late Sunday night to enjoy the beautiful winter scenes of the Falls. Return tickets are good until midnight Sunday.

The excursion is the first of the winter months and probably will be the last.

BEAUTIFUL DEBUTANTE TO WED

The engagement of Miss Jane Kendall, above, considered one of the most beautiful of the debutantes of the season, has just been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, of Washington, D. C. She is to marry George Grant Mason, Jr., of New York. Miss Kendall is a direct descendant of Henry Clay, Patrick Henry and Robert E. Lee, while Mr. Mason is a descendant of President Van Buren.

Sounds Like Kansas Law, Comment on Bill Demanding $1,000 for Marriage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Some Kansas legislators may think that money makes a marriage successful, but congressmen don't.

The bill proposed in the Kansas legislature, requiring every couple to have $1,000 before they could get a marriage license, excited both jests and jabs from members of the national house today.

"That's a mean bill," exclaimed Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Republican congresswoman from Massachusetts. "I believe it must have been introduced by a bachelor who wants his bride to provide him with a dowry—and that's still a man's privilege."

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Democratic congresswoman from New Jersey, thinks that the Kansas senator cut out a big job for himself when he decided to regulate marriage.

"Successful marriage does not depend on money," she said.

"The author of the bill should go further," he observed! "He should require that the money be kept intact to pay the costs of a divorce, or provide that a man must have $1,000 when he dies.

"If that kind of a law had been in effect the last 150 years most of our greatest statesmen, financiers and national characters never would have been born," said Representative Britten, Republican, of Illinois.

"I'm glad that doesn't apply to congressmen," said Representative Harrison, Democrat, of Virginia.

"Some of them couldn't even get married now if they had to have a thousand dollars."

SAY YOUTH INSANE

Lad Whose Attempted Escape Injured Marshal Sent to Hospital

Cincinnati, Feb. 11—United States Marshal Stanley Borthwick today had an order directing the incarceration of Nelson O. Sipes, Columbus, O., in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Washington, D. C., for mental treatment.

Sipes was arrested several months ago in Dayton on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile. When he attempted to escape custody in Dayton a deputy marshal there was seriously injured.

Drs. W. A. T. Ryan and R. C. Pennywitt, both of Dayton, appointed by the federal court here to inquire into the youth's mentality, found Sipes to be insane.

MARION LAWYER AMONG GROUP ATTENDING DINNER

H. E. Hill Guest at Banquet Given by Ohio State University Alumni

H. Edmund Hill, Marion attorney, and representative of the local district in the Ohio legislature was one of the 20 state senators and representatives, former students at Ohio State University, who were honored at a dinner given by the Alumni Association of the college in Columbus, Wednesday night.

Following the dinner, the university's budget requests, now before the Ohio legislature, were discussed by the officials of the college and the congressmen.

The local attorney attended Ohio State University in 1894 but never graduated from the school. Miss Osa Penny, Dayton, is the only Ohio State woman graduate in the Ohio law-making bodies.

Others honored included three senators, and 16 representatives besides the Marion lawyer. Dr. E. L. LeFever, Glouster; Roy J. Gillen, Wellston, and Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, were the senators.

The representatives included: Lester Abele, Cleveland; Elmer E. Bodeo, Tallmadge; Horace Keifer, Springfield; Dr. Harry S. Davidson, Akron; Dr. R. M. Hughey, Washington C. H.; Dr. O. L. Sims, Pleasantville; William C. Wendt, Columbus; Grant P. Ward, former football coach at Ohio State of Columbus; Walter J. Marion, Circleville; C. M. Emory, Stockdale; Charles H. Jones, Jackson; John D. Ewing, Mt. Vernon; Earle L. Johnson, Painesville; Earl Stewart, Ironton; and R. R. Cross, Dayton.
